Sheriff Paul Grimes reported Wednesday that he had been called to the vicinity east of Bainbridge early Monday morning to investigate the strange actions of a man who was walking west along the old 36 highway.

According to reports to the sheriff, the man's hair was cut short and some of the residents in the community thought he might be an escaped German prisoner. Sheriff Grimes soon found the man and it was soon revealed that he was an inmate of the insane hospital at Indianapolis who had walked away from the grounds. His name was Richard D. Cox, age 33 years, and he had formerly lived near Lebanon. He was returned to the insane hospital.

The Indianapolis FBI office said that their absence was noted after a routine check. Bauer and Winderl had been segregated from other Germans because of their anti-Nazi convictions, the FBI was told by Camp Atterbury officers.

Mr. Dewey Heads For California

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 20.—(UP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey turned south to California today for more campaign speeches following last night's appeal to voters in the November election to reject the theory of an "indispensable man" and the argument that future peace and prosperity depend upon re-election of President Roosevelt.

The Republican presidential nominee made his challenge of the "indispensable man" issue before an overflow audience of more than 7,000 persons in the Portland ice coliseum, and over a nation-wide radio hook-up.

Dewey opened his blast against the "indispensable man" claim by declaring flatly that: "there are no indispensable men."

"If our republic, after 150 years of self-government, is dependent upon the endless continuance of one man in office, then the hopes which animated the men who fought for the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution have indeed come to nothing," he said.

Dewey's address was made after a series of delays caused by two wrecks on the Great Northern railroad between Seattle and Portland. Dewey's special train, after waiting four hours at Seattle for restoration of service after a freight collision, rumbled the rear end of a stalled regular passenger train at the scene of the earlier wreck shortly before noon.

Dewey and his wife and most members of the official party escaped personal injury. The overnight stay at Portland was lengthened to allow time for re-fitting the special train and replacing broken glass.

Dewey will confer with Gov. Earl Warren and other political leaders in California and also will make two major addresses before he starts the long swing back across the country to Albany, N. Y.

His first address will be given tomorrow night at San Francisco, to be followed by another at Los Angeles the following night.

"The peace and prosperity of America and of the world can never depend on one man," the GOP candidate told the nation last night.

The essential requirements for peace and prosperity, he countered, are three-fold. He listed:

1. "Unity in our government and strength and unity among our people."
 2. "Harmonious action between the President and Congress."
 3. "A strong and vigorous American with jobs for all."
- None of them, he added, have been evidenced in 12 years of the Roosevelt administration. All of them can be realized, he promised, by a change in administration next January.
- "The plain fact is," Dewey said, "that for 12 straight years the new deal has given this country a continued demonstration of quarreling, dissension and disunity. It has set group against group, race against race, and class against class."
- "An administration which cannot unite its own house even in war can never unite the Nation for the tremendous peace tasks ahead of us. The one indispensable thing to

Reds To Enforce Finn Armistice

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Russian troops marched into Finland today to enforce on that twice-defeated country a stern armistice calling for large territorial and cash reparations and, according to an authoritative source, complete isolation for at least two months.

Deputy Premier Ernst von Born in a somber radio address to the Finnish people last night, revealed part of the price they must pay for the German alliance that brought them to war with Russia for the second time in five years.

Born announced only eight of the 23 points of the armistice agreement signed in Moscow yesterday. He admitted that Finland's negotiators had been able to obtain little if any softening of the Soviet demands.

He described the armistice bitterly as one of the harshest ever imposed upon a beaten nation, but urged his people to accept it and try to create a basis for friendly relations with their conquerors.

Born listed only the following eight terms which, he said, were the "core" of the peace treaty eventually to be signed:

- 1—Finland to withdraw behind her 1940 frontier, ceding Karelia to the Soviet Union;
- 2—Cession of the Petsamo area in northern Finland, site of some of the world's richest nickel deposits.
- 3—Lease to Russia for 50 years of the Porkkala headland just southwest of Helsinki and an unspecified land and sea area nearby.
- 4—All airdromes in eastern and southwestern Finland to be placed temporarily at the disposal of the allies.
- 5—Finland's merchant fleet temporarily made available to the allies.
- 6—German troops in Finland to be disarmed.
- 7—The Finnish army to be placed on a peace-time basis.
- 8—Payment of a $300,000,000 indemnity to Russia over a six-year period.

Russians Crack Down On Riga

MOSCOW, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Red Army forces were within sight of Riga today as three powerful armies totaling nearly 1,000,000 men cracked German defenses along a 170-mile front to virtually close a trap on tens of thousands of Nazi troops in the Baltics.

The drive on Riga was spearheaded by units of Gen. Ivan D. Bagramian's 1st Baltic Army which swept up through southern Latvia, took the big rail junction of Bauska and advanced 28 miles northward to Kekava, which is just south of the capital.

German forces fought fiercely with tanks and artillery all along the front, extending to the Estonian border, while falling back steadily before the huge Russian offensive.

The heaviest battles were waged in the Riga area, where Bagramian brought his main forces within eight miles of the capital and sent armored spearheads thrusting northward along the Dvina river toward the Gulf of Riga.

Indicative of the fierce fighting was a disclosure in a communique that Bagramian's troops in one day killed more than 3,000 Germans, captured approximately 8,000 guns, and took "many" prisoners.

(A Berlin broadcast, heard by CBS in New York, claimed that five days of fighting on the Baltic front had ended in a "convincing German success," but admitted that "in order to take advantage of the terrain and save reserves, the German command has now carried out a shortening of the line.")

More than 2,800 towns and villages fell to the Soviets in the four-day offensive as they pushed the curving front ever closer to the Baltic sea.

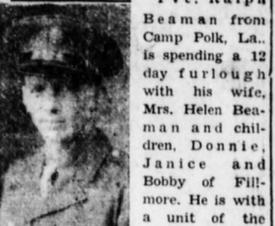

On a parallel line just north of Bagramian's forces, the 2nd Baltic Army, under Gen. Andrei I. Yermenko, was driving eastward along a 14-mile front on the north bank of the Dvina.

One salient stormed into the big rail, road and river center of Plavinas, 65 miles east of Riga and plunged four miles ahead to Klintene, while another column captured Irshl, at the northern end of Yermenko's lines, 52 miles east of the Latvian capital.

Farther north, on the Latvian-Estonian border, Gen. Ivan I. Maslennikov's 3rd Baltic Army was driving a two-pronged force toward the Baltic. One force knocked out the key German base of Valga, 86 miles northeast of Riga, then crossed the Gaugene river and established several bridgeheads on the west bank.

Madeline and some other students at the Paris university formed themselves into a band to fight the Germans, but they had only three old-fashioned pistols. They set out to obtain firearms.

HITLER HEADS NAZIS IN BATTLE FOR GERMANY

FUEHRER TAKES PERSONAL COMMAND OF TROOPS IN RHINELAND

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Adolf Hitler has taken direct command of the battle of the Saar valley, it was revealed today as British armored forces turning the flank of the Siegfried Line in Holland, entered Nijmegen in a swift drive that threatened momentarily to break across the Rhine on the high road to Berlin.

Hitler's generalship already was in evidence all along the blazing battle-front from northern Holland to the edge of the Saar valley. Front dispatches said crack German troops and panzer units were being hurled into reckless counterattacks that slowed the allied advance in some sectors at a frightful cost in Nazi lives. In others, they resulted only in a slaughter of Germans without stemming the Berlin-bound allies.

The Fuehrer's hand also was seen in the appearance of Nazi robot bombs on the fighting front for the first time. Field dispatches said two flying bombs crashed into American positions along the Meuse river, exploding with terrific force but apparently causing few casualties among the well-dispersed troops.

First official word of the Fuehrer's new role, similar to that which he assumed with disastrous results on the Russian front, came from Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery at his forward command in Belgium.

"The allies have a lot to be thankful for in that Hitler has taken charge of operations," Montgomery told officers and men of a Scottish division. "It means the enemy is commanded by a lunatic."

"In that respect, I'm glad the German generals failed in their bomb attempt against the Fuehrer."

Hitler's decision to lead the defense of the Reich, he added, strengthened his (Montgomery's) belief that the war in Europe would end before the close of 1944.

One major triumph was confirmed by allied headquarters today—the capture of the great Atlantic port of Brest and the elimination of the Germans from the neighboring Crozon peninsula, ending a month-old siege that virtually wrecked the harbor.

A second and greater victory was in the making in northern Holland where the armored might of the British 2nd Army reached the Waal-Rhine line and threatened to break across the barrier momentarily into the open country before Berlin.

AMERICANS ARE MOPPING UP ON TWO JAP ISLANDS

MARINES ENTER FINAL PHASE OF CAMPAIGN FOR PELELIU

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Marines holding almost the entire east side of Peleliu island began the final phase of their campaign today by digging out stubborn Japanese from ridge pillboxes while army troops nearly completed the occupation of nearby Angaur.

Front dispatches said First Division marines, veterans of Guadalcanal, had battered through viciously-defended Japanese positions to seize all primary objectives, including Peleliu airdrome and the town of Ngardalak.

On Angaur, army forces swept through the town of Saipan, site of a phosphate works, and middle village to take control of four-fifths of the island. The Japanese offered little resistance and their remaining forces were hopelessly trapped on the northwest and southeast corners.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz disclosed that 117 damaged enemy aircraft were found at Peleliu airfield which American planes will use to neutralize the northern Palau Islands, such as Koror and Babelthap. The Japanese are believed to have approximately 30,000 troops on those islands.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, collaborating with Nimitz in the Philippines offensive announced that Mitchell medium bombers again hit southern Mindanao Sunday, concentrating on Buayan airdrome and harbor installations on Sarangani bay.

The southwest Pacific commander for the second successive day failed to report on operations of ground forces which occupied Morotal Island, in the Halmaheras, 250 miles south of the Philippines.

Naval officials disclosed the loss of two surface craft in the Palau campaign. The minesweeper Perry, a converted World War I 1,150-ton destroyer, was sunk by the Japanese, and a landing craft, equipped as a gunboat (LCI 459) struck a mine while hurrying rockets into Peleliu last Sunday. All personnel from the landing boat were safe, but "small" casualties were suffered aboard the Perry.

The navy also revealed that submarines had sunk 29 more Japanese ships, including three warships, to raise the toll of under-sea raiders in the Pacific to 761 since the beginning of the war.

On Peleliu, the Japanese despite the loss of more than half their forces, continued fighting bitterly from pillboxes, trenches and other prepared defenses, from where they hurled intermittent artillery and mortar fire in the marine ranks.

The leathernecks, who cleared "Bloody Nose" ridge in one of the most vicious battles of the Pacific, continued their advance about one mile northeastward, to gain almost full control of the eastern side of Peleliu. There was little change, however, in their positions on the west coast on the center.

Nimitz meantime disclosed new aerial attacks on Iwo Jima in the volcanoes last Saturday; Marcus Island on Sunday, and Shimushu and Paramushiro in the Kuriles on Saturday and Tuesday.

MacArthur's bombers carried out new strikes in the Dutch East Indies, centering the raids with a 145 ton assault on Celebes, just west of Halmahera.

John T. Yager Will Be 100 On Friday

The life of John T. Yager, for 30 years a resident of Martinsville, will span 100 years next Friday when he observes his birthday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Isa Y. Wilson, on Lockerie street in Mooresville.

Mr. Yager will probably spend the day quietly although many of his friends are planning to call at his home. Although he was confined to his bed for several months in the spring and summer, he is up now, at tended church last Sunday.

In spite of his years, Mr. Yager has never lost interest in the people and the activities about him, and has kept his alertness and his love of a good joke with his friends.

A native Kentuckian, he was born in Oldham county Sept. 22, 1844, one of nine children born to William W. and Sarah Ann Hinkle Yager. Two years after Mr. and Mrs. Yager came by covered wagon to a wilderness a few miles south of the present town of Hall, where they built a log cabin. In 1853 John, with his grandfather, joined them and he has lived in Morgan Co. since that time. He attended the county schools and then became a successful teacher and writing expert.

His marriage to Ruth Juriah Smith took place Sept. 12, 1872. The Yagers were the parents of four children, Floyd Crum, Anna Jane, Isa Alice, and Mary. A few years after his marriage he gave up teaching to farm and continued this until 1907 when he moved to Martinsville. Here he made his home with his daughter Mary until her death in 1937. During his years in this city he continued his outdoor work, caring for yards and flower gardens in which he had a great interest.

A great Bible student, Mr. Yager had read the entire Bible through four times and the New Testament 25 times. He had always been an active worker in the church, first with his parents in the Methodist and later in the Christian Church—Martinsville Reporter.

CONVENTION CLOSES

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(UP)—American Legion will close its annual convention today with a on a strongly worded proposal for the formation of a world-wide organization backed by the might of the United Nations to force peace, and the election of new national commander.

The resolution, which Ray Murphy, Iowa, chairman of the foreign relations committee, said would go further than the Legion's similar proposal last year, was approved by committee last night.

Murphy said the committee was complete agreement on the resolution which represents the "conscience of the Legion." He said the proposal will outline a "more specific and concrete plan" than last year's resolution, particularly as to a world force.

YANKS REACH GOTHIC LINE

ROME, Sept. 20.—(UP)—American troops breached the Gothic Line along a six mile front north of Florence today and drove to within three miles of Firenzuola, junction of two main highways leading northward through the Apennine mountains.

One of the roads leads to Bologna, 25 miles due north of Firenzuola, and the other leads to Imola, 25 miles northeast, a town situated on Via Emilia, direct route between Bologna and Rimini on the Adriatic coast.

The U. S. Fifth Army troops made the gains after capturing three dominant heights, Mount Pratone, Mount Altuzzo and Mount Monticelli, all about 20 airline miles northwest of Florence and all well within the Ger-

TUCKER TO SPEAK

James M. Tucker, former Secretary of State for Indiana and now national chairman of Young Republicans, will be the principal speaker at a meeting Friday night, September 22 at 7:30 o'clock in the Mayflower Room of the Terre Haute House in Terre Haute. The meeting is sponsored by the Vigo County Young Republican Club.

Mr. Tucker will speak on the serviceman's voting. He has just recently been released from the navy, having been wounded in action in the Mediterranean theater of operations.

The Elks Chanters and Warren Henderson's "Strollers" will furnish music.

Several Putnam county citizens are planning to attend this rally. The public is invited to attend.

WILL DEMAND AVIATION BAN FOR JAPS, GERMANS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(UP)—American proposals at the international aviation conference beginning Nov. 1 will include a demand that all forms of aviation—private, commercial and military—in Germany and Japan be virtually immobilized for an indeterminate period after the war, it was learned today.

The principal air powers are believed already agreed that the enemy countries shall not be permitted to retain, manufacture or import military aircraft.

In addition, this country, presumably with support of Britain, Russia and China, will insist on keeping down enemy civil aviation for years to come, bearing in mind the threat that once was imposed in this hemisphere by axis airlines in Latin America.

Under the United States proposal, it was reported, major airports in Germany and Japan might be placed under international control and would be open to use by any United Nations commercial airline engaged in international transport.

HELD AS ROBOT INVENTOR

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(UP)—The Daily Mail today reported that Georges Claude, French scientist, had been arrested at Nancy and charged with being the inventor of the German V-1 flying bomb.

Claude, who invented the Neon light, was said to be a royalist and one of the earliest French collaborators.

DEWEY

(Continued From Page One) achieving this teamwork and devotion, this unity in government we have so long lacked, is a change from the indispensable man.

As an example of lack of harmony between the White House and Congress, Dewey recalled the President's veto of the 1944 tax bill last February which provoked Senate Democratic leader Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, to voice a vigorous protest on the Senate floor.

GREENCASTLE MAN FELT LIKE SWOLLEN BALLOON; FULL OF STOMACH GAS

Recently, a Greencastle man stated that he used to feel like a swollen balloon after every meal. He would bloat full of gas and spit up acridulous liquids for hours after eating. Was terribly constipated. This man is one of the hundreds in this vicinity who now praise ERB-HELP. He states he was amazed at the results when he took this medicine. Now he eats what he wants without gas or bloating, and bowels are regular for the first time in years. He feels like a new man.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Sold by all drug stores in Greencastle.

"My opponent has demonstrated that he cannot work with the present Democratic Congress," Dewey said. "How in the name of the future of our country can he be expected to get along with the Republican Congress which will certainly be elected this fall?"

As for job opportunity, Dewey repeated his complaint that after seven years in office with "unprecedented power," and spending 58 billion dollars, "there still were 10 million unemployed."

"We need to revise and radically reduce the unnecessary burdens and handicaps placed by government upon the job-making machinery of our economic system," Dewey continued.

He argued that President Roosevelt will not be indispensable to writing or preserving of the peace terms either.

"The peace we seek must not hang by the slender thread of personal acquaintance of any two or three men," he insisted. "The pages of history are littered with treaties proclaimed permanent peace made privately by rulers of Nations and quickly and publicly broken ..."

"I want to see a people's peace come at the end of this war. I want to see a peace which has been worked out in the full light of day before all the world. We all want to see a peace which has been pored over by the trained experts of all Nations who will be involved in it."

Dewey said it was for that reason that he had entered into bi-partisan efforts of the Dumbarton Oaks conference to draft the preliminary framework for an international peace organization.

Capt. Albert Keckler who left Greencastle for overseas service many months ago is now recuperating in an English hospital from serious battle wounds. In a letter to a local faithful donor to Red Cross blood bank, Capt. Keckler makes the following statement:

"I've seen a man who has been given sixteen pints of blood and is now up and will be going back to duty before too long. It would certainly make you feel good to see and know how many lives have been saved by people like you who have given so freely and generously to the Blood Bank."

You may have been meaning to call and make your appointment for donating a pint of blood when the Red Cross mobile unit comes to the Elks, September 28 and 29, and just haven't got around to it. Call Mrs. Thad Jones now at 263J or 418 for your time of appearance in the parade of donors.

Registrants for Putnam county's second class for Red Cross nurse's aides are now being accepted by Mrs. Don Ellis, chairman for that Red Cross phase of community service. The class will open early in October and the first unit of the training will be given in Bowman gymnasium under registered nurses. The second unit consists of supervised duty at the county hospital.

Mrs. Ellis stated that the greatest need is for women who can give daytime hours of volunteer service. Since the fifty year age limit has been withdrawn, Mrs. Ellis expressed the hope that older women, in good health, would register for this class. The minimum age requirement is eighteen years. Interested persons are asked to call or write Mrs. Ellis or the local Red Cross office.

Registrants, to date, include the following persons: Mrs. Walter Bundy, Miss Mary Cecelia Dreyer, Miss Madonna Grimes, Mrs. Frances Hammond, Miss Frances Hendricks, Miss Mary Hendricks, Mrs. W. D. James, Miss Florence Jome, Miss Patricia Lenzen, Mrs. Juanita Linley, Mrs. Fred Ritchie, Mrs. Elsie Ruark, Miss Jerry Ruark, Mrs. John S. Simson and Miss Virginia Young.

We had the opportunity of talking to Capt. Roy Bray, recently returned from active duty in England.

"Tell us something of Red Cross as you saw it operating over there," we asked him. "And tell us something good," we continued, trying to be funny, "because we want to use it in publicity."

But Capt. Bray was completely serious when he answered, after a moment's thought, "I don't know anything but good about the Red Cross." He told us that his experience with Red Cross had been limited because its assistance is patterned chiefly for the men in the ranks and officers pretty well shift for themselves. But he had been in a Red Cross Club in Southampton, a resort town that compares to our Atlantic City. There he had had an excellent meal for about forty cents.

Another time, through the efforts of a Red Cross worker he had succeeded in finding a night's lodging for himself and another officer when it had looked as if there was no available room in an over-crowded town.

Though, as Capt. Bray said, his experience with Red Cross had been limited, he was unable to recall a single complaint he had heard about any Red Cross work being done in any section of the British Isles he visited.

Perhaps we'd best just give up preaching better attendance at surgical dressings. Sometimes it seems that the number attending falls off immediately following one of our printed outbursts. Maybe we're just self conscious.

The fact remains that there were only eleven workers present at both Friday's and Monday afternoon's sessions. Eleven women making surgical dressings in a county of 20,000 population! Monday night upheld its record for a good turn-out. Thirty-one women were there and since the largest dressings are being made now, that is just about the room's seating capacity.

Part of that good turn out was due to the efforts of Mrs. Walter Howard who filled her car with Putnamville women before she headed for the Masonic Temple work room. Three high school girls were in the group. Mary Lee Zieglerman, Maryanne Bills and Marcia Fay.

A 12TH AAF B-26 MARAUDER BASE—Sergeant Laurin L. Linley, of Cloverdale, Indiana had a bird's eye view of the August 15th invasion of Southern France.

An engineer gunner with the AAF's oldest B-26 medium bomber group, he participated in his group's attack on the German beach defenses in Southern France in support of the invading ground force. For a week prior to the invasion, he had flown over southern France in softening-up missions, striking at vital enemy communication systems and gun positions.

His Marauder group are veterans of amphibious support operation having participated in the invasions of Sicily, Pantalleria, Salerno and Anzio. His was the first B-26 group in Major General John K. AGAIN ABLE TO WORK HE PRAISES RETONGA

Lost 25 Pounds And Had To Spend Much Of His Time In Bed Says Mr. Park. Eats With Fine Appetite Now. Regains Several Pounds.

Mr. Charles F. Park

Gratefully giving Retonga full credit for his relief from debilitating symptoms due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, constipation, and need of Vitamin B-1 for digestion, nerves, and strength, Mr. Charles F. Park, a life-long resident of Terre Haute, Ind., who resides at 421 South 3rd street, and has hundreds of friends throughout the city gratefully states:

"For about four years I suffered so much distress from indigestion and gas in my stomach that I felt miserable practically every day, and I could hardly sleep at night. I got up every morning feeling tired and wornout. My stomach seemed to stay acid all the time. I lost 25 or 30 pounds and got to where I couldn't work and had to spend a lot of time in bed.

"The relief Retonga gave me is little short of wonderful. I feel no more distress from acid, gassy stomach and digestion, my appetite has improved and I have regained several pounds, which I badly needed. I feel so much stronger that I am again taking on some work. It is a pleasure to praise Retonga."

Scores of your neighbors and friends are praising Retonga. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Mullins Drug Store. Adv.

Fresh air and water are good for man and beast but not for the life of a vitamin. The longer fruits and vegetables stay in the market and in home storage, the more vitamins lost.

Vitamin C is easily destroyed. Heat and air are two of its common enemies and water will dissolve it. So even though some of the "greens" which are relatively good sources of Vitamin C, may seem dirty when they come from the garden, they should not be soaked in water. Wash them quickly in one water bath; lift them out and place in fresh water. By several quick rinsings, the grit and dirt will sink to the bottom of the basin and the vegetables will not be bruised or crushed. And crushing, also, is another way to lose some of the Vitamin C. When cooking fresh greens, nutritionists advise that just enough water be used to keep them from sticking to the pan. By cooking vegetables in briskly boiling, slightly salted water, Vitamin C is retained longer, but remember to use as little water as possible. The less cut surfaces there are, the less vitamins will be exposed to water and air. Cut vegetables in large pieces rather than small ones, or better yet, boil them with skins on. Vegetables that are to be grated or diced should be shredded at the last minute so the air will not have time to destroy the Vitamin C. Vegetables that are shredded lose less vitamins than those that have been chopped. The use of a plastic knife or shredding results in less vitamin loss than when a metal one is used.

Thiamin, riboflavin, and niacin—three of the B vitamins, are soluble in water also. Foods rich in these vitamins should not be soaked, and the liquid in which they are cooked should be used. There is a knack in preparing frozen foods in order to keep the vitamins too. Keep them frozen hard until you are ready to use them. Vegetables to be cooked should be placed frozen, into slightly salted, boiling water. In canning, acid fruits and tomatoes retain their Vitamin C better than do non-acid vegetables. A good bit of the B vitamin value dissolves in canning, so if the liquor in the jar is not used, much of this vitamin value will be lost. Whether foods are canned, frozen or dehydrated, there are several points to remember if vitamin value is to be retained. Select produce of prime quality and maturity. Second, prepare food immediately before it has time to deteriorate. Use product within a year, if possible, from time it was prepared.

Have a Coca-Cola = Soldier, refresh yourself

...or a way to relax in camp

From southern camps with their moss-hung cypresses to camps near the north woods, there's one place soldiers can relax—the Post Exchange. There they settle down to "shoot the breeze" together. Have a "Coke", they say. Coca-Cola is a refreshing reminder of what they left behind. On "Company Street" in camp as on Main Street at home, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes. In your own refrigerator, ice-cold bottles of Coca-Cola are a symbol of a friendly way of living.
