NEGRO QUIZZED ABOUT THREE OTHER MURDERS

POLICE TRYING TO CONNECT WATTS WITH UNSOLVED CRIMES

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Authorities today planned to question Robert A. Watts, 25-year-old admitted slayer of two Indianapolis housewives, about three unsolved murders that were committed from 1943 to 1946.

Watts Tuesday morning confessed to having killed Mrs. Mary Lois Burney accidentally while they grappled with a shotgun in her home Nov. 12. Early Thursday morning he told his questioners that Mrs. Mabel Merrifield was also killed "accidentally" when she fell on a butcher knife.

Police have requested naval authorities in Washington to furnish him with a transcript of Watts' naval service, so they can determine if he was in Indianapolis during August, 1945, at the time of the killing of WAC Corp. Maoma L. Ridings, who was found slashed to death in her hotel room.

The rape-slaping of Mrs. Dorothy A. Steck Aug. 24, 1945, and the bludgeon killing of student nurse Alberta Green Sept. 11, 1945, were the other murders about which police planned to question the former city truck driver. Watts was free on $255 bond from a rape charge last February, when he was hired as a driver for the city asphalt plant.

Yesterday afternoon Watts who had been returned to his cell after questioning, startled deputy sheriffs with a shout that he "had forgotten to tell something else I did."

He told a deputy that, on Oct. 8, 1947, he had seen "two pretty girls" while driving his city truck. He put his hand in one pocket as if he had a gun, and forced one of the girls out of the car.

He broke a window in a house and forced the girl to climb inside, where he attacked her. He said he dropped several cigarettes inside, but did not attach any importance to that until he learned that the house had burned down.

City firemen confirmed the story of the fire, saying that they had fought a blaze in the neighborhood Watts described Oct. 8.

D'PAUW GIVES $300 TO H. S. BAND FUND

ADDITIONAL DONORS TO UNIFORM CAMPAIGN SWELL TOTAL

That donors continue to hop on the "gift band wagon" for the maintenance fund of the band and orchestra is evidenced by the additional gifts reported Friday morning. A special appeal to those citizens who are not reached through the downtown businesses is being made at this time for their gift to this drive, the immediate need of which is for band uniforms. These persons are asked to contact any member of the committee or to send contributions to Band Uniform Fund, Lois Arnold, treasurer.

Assisting Russell Clapp in the downtown district are: John Cherry, John Rightsell and Claude Webb. Working with Russell Hardman in contacting civic organizations and clubs is Walter Ballard. Mrs. W. J. Fugson is contacting the medical group.

DePauw University swelled the fund by $300.00 on Thursday afternoon.

Other gifts include:

- Deem's Steak House $ 10.00
- H. E. Miller Co. 15.00
- Hood's Barber Shop 15.00
- Fred Stage 10.00
- Horace Link & Co. 15.00
- Ed Carlin & Leroy Moore 20.00

- Sam Hanna 50.00
- DePauw University 300.00

- Acc-Heating 5.00

Warren Swickard, White Way, Rusty's Bakery, Ralph Randall, Gwin Emsign, F. C. Yeager, Harold Inman, Wm. Cosner and the Commercial Hotel, a total of $20.00.

The above amounts together with those previously reported makes this fund at the $2,000 mark. It is hoped that the results will be lucrative enough that this fund will be permanently established for the use of these instrumental groups of the city schools. Plans are underway for its maintenance from this point on without such a drive.

If you are not represented on this band wagon of gifts, just give a whistle, it will stop to take you on.

ROYAL COUPLE HAVE PRIVACY FOR A MONTH

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip honeymooned today in one wing of a mansion on his uncle's 6,000-acre estate 74 miles from London.

For one month, they will enjoy more privacy than they can expect for the rest of their lives. Scotland Yard men were all over the place to insure the world's most famous newlyweds' privacy.

When the lights went off in their honeymoon suite at 11 o'clock last night, the Daily Mirror reported, there was a Scotland Yard detective on guard in the attic, several floors above. Other detectives patrolled the estate in a jeep.

Broadlands, the mansion of Philip's uncle, Earl Mountbatten, has been the Royal South Hampshire hospital since the war, and the Mountbattens kept only a small wing of it for their use.

This was where Elizabeth and Philip were honeymooning, and the patients in the hospital were beside themselves in excitement, "hinking that by looking out of the windows, they might see the royal lovers strolling in the gardens.

There also were four servants, although the Mirror reported, Philip let all of them go except the butler after dinner. Dinner, under Britain's strict rationing, was potato soup, roasted chicken, two vegetables and ice cream.

A special, flower-bedecked train took them from London to Winchester, the station nearest the estate, early last night. The Mirror said that as soon as they arrived, Elizabeth was shown to the pink and gold bedchamber, where a maid helped her change from her going away costume.

Youths Admit Brutal Shooting

DETROIT, Nov. 21.—(UP)—A young auto worker who clung tenaciously to life for two days with bullets in his brain, died today only a few hours after two young Michigan youths were seized at Richmond, Ind., and confessed the brutal shooting.

Kenneth Luhn, 25-year-old, Air Forces veteran and Pontiac Motors Company employe, succumbed at Grace hospital. Skilled surgeons had removed one of three bullets lodged in his brain in vain effort to save his life.

As Luhn died, police at Richmond reported that two youths captured there last night admitted shooting Luhn Tuesday night when he picked them up in his car.

Luhn was found near-nude and writhing in a barn eight miles east of Pontiac, Mich., Wednesday morning. His delirious babblings led police to believe he was tortured before he was shot.

DR. ALICE PORTER WILL BE BURIED HERE SATURDAY

RITES FOR NATIVE OF CITY, FORMER TEACHER AT FOREST HILL

Dr. Alice Downey Porter, a graduate of DePauw University in 1879 and member of an old Greencastle family, will be buried in Forest Hill cemetery in Greencastle Saturday. Dr. Porter, one of the oldest of the DePauw alumni group, died in Providence, R. I., Nov. 19.

Dr. Porter, who was 91 years of age, formerly taught at DePauw and later at Northwestern, Wellesley and Baker University. Following her retirement at Baker she taught for more than 20 years at a settlement house in Boston.

Born in Greencastle in 1856, Dr. Porter was the daughter of Prof. Charles G. Downey of DePauw's mathematics department. She received her master's degree from DePauw in 1882 and the doctor of philosophy degree from Cornell University in 1899.

Dr. Porter taught rhetoric in the DePauw Academy until 1883, when she married the Rev. Frederick Porter. Upon his death in 1892 she resumed teaching at DePauw and later went to other schools. At Baker University she served as professor of English and dean of women from 1899 to 1918.

Following her retirement she undertook additional study in Italian and citizenship and published a book, "Easy Lessons in Browning." Following 20 years of social work in Boston she entered yet another new field, that of stimulating interest in world peace among the nation's teachers.

From her house at 4 Brighton street, Providence, she sent out thousands of pamphlets and leaflets urging world cooperation. She met the expenses of printing and mailing, and neighborhood children helped her stuff and seal the envelopes.

Dr. Porter last visited Greencastle on Alumni Day in June, 1946, and was the oldest graduate on the campus for the occasion.

Her daughter, Mrs. Ross A. Baker of New York, will accompany the body to Greencastle. Her son-in-law, Dr. Ross Baker, a DePauw graduate in the class of 1906, is a professor of chemistry in the City College of New York.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS LOCAL PHONE HEARING

MATTER OF PROPOSED RATE INCREASES DISCUSSED

A long list of witnesses were faced on the stand Friday morning in the hearing of the Associated Telephone Corporation for an increase in rates in Greencastle, when the adjourned hearing was resumed here after a session in Indianapolis before the Public Service Commission several weeks ago.

That the telephone service in Greencastle is far below par was indicated by the evidence given at hearing commission Friday morning. All witnesses testified that the service was poor. Some said it had been somewhat improved in recent weeks, but others said it continued below par.

Leroy E. Yoder, Commissioner and J. B. Bailey, examiner, heard the evidence. Representing the Telephone Corporation were Michael Fansler and Allison Stuart and representing the city were City Attorney Frank Stossel, Rexell A. Boyd, president of the Chamber of Commerce and J. de H. Jones special counsel.

Among the witnesses heard were Miss Helen Black, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Mr. Boyd, Ernest Rader, postal employe, J. F. Hirt, business man; Estil McCloud, former night policeman; Russell Clapp, city chief of police; Judge James P. Hughes, farmer and attorney; Dr. Dick J. Steele and Dr. George F. Parker.

Most of the witnesses told the commission that there were many delays in getting an operator, many wrong numbers were rung and often times no ring was made; telephones were held for long periods on long distance calls, that towns within a few miles radius of the city were harder to get than those farther away.

The Commission asked some of the witnesses if they would object to an increase in rates if the service was good, and they said it was to be expected.

The parts were all well cast and Chris Hamilton, a Greencastle boy, plays one of the leading roles exceptionally well. The play is directed by Dr. Herold T. Ross.

O. K. on Aid to Austria | Doubt U. S. Will Assume Cost of British Occupation

Special to Central Press

Prospects are that Congress will approve with- out delay the 597 million dollars asked by Secre- tary George C. Marshall for stop-gap aid to France, Italy and 500 millions for occupied areas may also be voted, probably will be some argument on this issue.

Point is whether Congress will go along with taking over from the British the full cost of German occupation in the United States and British zones.

Another sharp controversy is expected over the proposal of the Herter committee in the House to set up a new government corporation to ad- minister foreign aid.

Marshall is opposed to this idea. Republican leaders in Congress, like House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., and Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg, are support- ing it.

A compromise may be worked out, but signs point to a conflict that may delay action until the next session of Congress.

THEY LIKE STASSEN—Republican leaders, with the possible exception of Thomas E. Dewey, Stassen in almost any other role but that of GOP candidate.

He has 100 Upper Mississippi valley delegates at the Philadelphia convention next year, and observers so. But this is where the Stassen bandwagon bogs down. Stassen will admit as much.

Senator Robert A. Taft (R), Ohio, the only other Republican, and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R), Michigan, are of other top-notch Republicans entertain a deep respect for the former Minnesota governor.

Working with the proverbial grain of salt Stassen's supporters that he will not consider the vice presidential slot if the former governor goes down fighting he and accept second place on a ticket headed by Taft gets the nod.

He appeared twice on speaking platforms with Stassen. If he can be reasonably sure of naming his own runner.

When poultryless Thursdays were dropped from the food conservation campaign, an end was called to bitterest fights on any phase of the food-saving drive.

That in the long run, Food Conservation Chief Charles C. Brannan, Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson got an eye-to-eye with the poultrymen.

Where they did, there were a lot of undercover nego- tiations in Washington for dropping the special day.

Talks involved the poultry branch of the Agriculture department.

It actually lined up the poultry branch of the Agriculture department during the first week of the poultryless and eggless day program.

Some of the poultry experts were working with the Agriculture department, the secretary and his aides (one of whom suggested) were fighting to keep it in effect.

It was bad that Luckman refused to take any action on Thursday without the written endorsement of both the Agriculture department poultry branch.

ROYAL COUPLE

Philip changed from his naval uniform and they met about 8 p. m. in the drawing room, where there was a blazing fire on the hearth. According to the Mirror, Philip snapped on the radio and then shut it off.

They talked for a while then, the Princess opened several of the congratulatory telegrams from piles that had arrived. Then they went into the little dining room and sat side-by-side for dinner, which the Princess insisted on calling "supper." They finished eating about 10 p. m., the Mirror said.

Local Net Team Battles Panthers

The Tiger Cubs left this afternoon for Bloomington for their second tilt of the season with the Bloomington high school basketball team.

The Panthers are big and tall this year and the Greencastle netters have a job cut out for them this evening. Bloomington fans are counting on a winning aggregation this winter and will certainly be disappointed should the local basketweavers return home on the long end of tonight's score.

Coach Tom Goldsberry has been trying to iron out the mistakes in last week's contest with State High at Terre Haute during the daily workouts this week. A number of Greencastle fans were planning to make the trip to Bloomington so the Cubs should have a cheering section tonight in the lair of the Panthers.

rather than of those outlandish, sweetish odors that are supposed to arouse his passions.

If the way to a man's heart is supposed to be through his stomach, why not try the approach through his nose?

Here is a way for the "aromatics and perfumery trades" to make additional millions.

And I won't charge them a cent for my idea.

Looking at Life

Erich Brandeis'

A "Course in Smells" is now being offered in New York City to persons engaged in the aromatics and perfumery trades.

The students will be required to become accustomed to "smell by association." At class meetings they will be asked to smell certain aromatic solutions similar to the more common things in life.

"Some of these solutions," said the instructor, "suggest the smell of lemon and lime, or perhaps a forest area. Some smell like the elephant's cage in a zoo."

He also suggested that all young children should be trained in smell perception. Too few of them now get the full benefit of the thousands of smells in nature, and thus a keener appreciation of smells could be developed.

Well, maybe so.

To me it seems that a general course in smell perception would just add another useless subject to the many that are being taught in our schools.

My own sense of smell is pretty well developed without having studied "smell perception."

For instance, when I read the reports about the recent investigation of the movie industry, it didn't take me long to detect a definite similarity between its smell and that of a skunk which I encountered on my way home the evening before.

Neither did I need a course to recognize the difference between New York's smell of garbage cans and the fresh country smell I detect the moment I get away from the big city into the aromatic surroundings of trees and flowers and grass in the country.

Last night we had pot roast and red cabbage for dinner. Long before eating time the delicious odors of this, one of my favorite dishes, wafted through the house into my study upstairs. I was very busy with the Sunday comics, but that lovely smell disturbed my studies, and every five minutes or so I asked my wife "When will dinner be ready?"

I admit, however, that to those in the "aromatics and perfumery trades" a thorough study of smells would be very useful.

Thus, they can learn how to make soaps and shaving creams and toothpaste to suit each individual taste.

OBITUARY

Mary Jane, daughter of Peter and Betty Turner, was born January 8, 1880, at North Liberty, Kentucky. She was one of a family of eight children, five of whom have preceded her in death. She fell into that eternal sleep and departed this earthly life at her home near Bainbridge, Indiana, on November 15, 1947 at the age of 67 years, 10 months and 7 days. On April 4, 1904 she was united in marriage to Gano E. Caywood of Mt. Sterling. He has ever since been her faithful companion and is now left to mourn her passing. The home established by this union was blessed with four children, Catherine who died in infancy, Warren, of Bainbridge, Mrs. Olive Yeager of Charleston, West Virginia, and Mrs. Ruth Clevenger of Indianapolis who remain as a comfort to the bereaved father. There are also six grandchildren, two brothers, Henry Turner of Findley, Ohio and Walter Turner of Mt. Sterling, Kentucky, and a host of relatives and friends who will miss the voice that is stilled.

A few years after their marriage this young couple left their native state to seek a livelihood and make new friends in Indiana. Due to their tireless energy and their warm affection they have succeeded well in both. Their home has been near Bainbridge for over 30 years. In this community Mother Caywood developed a warm devotion and tender interest in her home and children. Somehow she developed a philosophy that a mother's chief duty was the welfare of her children. To this end she spent her life. It was a source of much joy and satisfaction to her to know that she had reared a family who had grown to maturity and established themselves as honorable members of society in the communities in which they live. In recent years she looked forward with great expectation to their visits home and they, remembering how she always ministered to and comforted their many needs "Rose up to call her blessed."

There is a word, my sister and my brother
That God has written underneath His own
One word; His Intermediary—"Mother"

Who shares the tasks he could not do alone.
Mother Caywood was a lover of nature. Ofttimes in her earlier years she could be seen side by side with her companion gathering in the harvest. God through nature develops tender companionships. In later years she turned her attention to the growth of flowers and as long as she was able her home was a spectacle of beautiful varieties.

In her youth she became a member of the Christian church and embodied its doctrine in her daily living. At the time of her passing she was a member of the Bainbridge church. Her religion was based on a firm belief in good works, because she was always ready to lend a helping hand or speak a sympathetic word in time of need. As the shadows of her life began to lengthen her faith and trust in God were strengthened for she knew in whom she had believed. As her soul was leaving her earthly body there hung on the bedside this motto "Only one short life 'twill soon be past; only the things for Christ will last." She was confident that the faith which had been sufficient to keep and sustain her amidst the trials and conflicts so incident to this life was sufficient to go with her always, even through the Valley of the Shadow of Death. As the years were swiftly passing for her the spirit of her faith and trust can best be told in the prayer of the beautiful hymn.

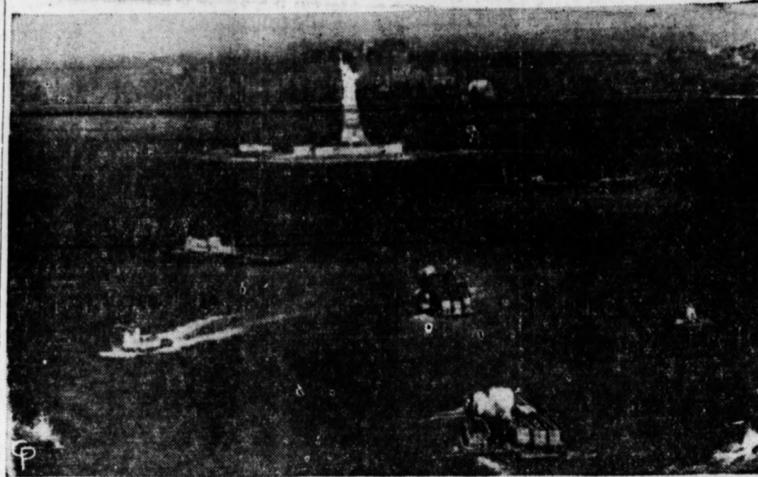

Abide with me, fast falls the evening tide,
The darkness deepens, Lord with me abide.
When other helpers fail and comforts flee,
Help of the Helpless, O abide with me.
Hold Thou Thy cross before my closing eyes,
Shine through the gloom and point me to the skies
Heaven's morning breaks and earth's vain shadows flee
In life in death, O Lord abide with me.

RE-OPEN OLD FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Republican congressional leaders were re-opening a long-standing row over government spending today in framing their answers to President Truman's anti-inflation program.

Prominent Republicans in both the House and Senate charged that federal expenditures were a major cause of high prices and that the administration was making no adequate effort to reduce them.

The issue was raised as the 51 Republican senators were called to a party conference to discuss Mr. Truman's 10-point anti-inflation program. Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, conference chairman, indicated it would be largely a talkfest and that he expected no policy decisions before the various committees act on specific legislation.

In the face of Democratic suggestions that a "bipartisan" program be developed, Republican congressional leaders showed no inclination to consider any but the less controversial of Mr. Truman's proposals. They were hailing most at his request for power to restore rationing and
