Again has our Golden Chain been broken and another link has fallen away in death and our beloved Statira Smythe has gone to join the Golden Chain around the altar of the All Wise in the world where death comes not and to realize the full happiness of loving and serving God forever. She has finished her task in the conflict of life and is now at rest. In remembering her many virtues we are indeed mourners at her grave, and in the house of sorrow we would drop the tear of affectionate sympathy.

Resolved, That we cherish in our hearts the recollection of her truthful faith, and while standing beside the Broken Column will look beyond the shore of time and trust that our departed sister is only waiting beyond the river to welcome us to our Eternal Home.

Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved family our warmest sympathy and deepest sorrow. May God comfort them and give them grace to say "Thy will be done."

KICKED OUT.

The Republican Moguls Have No Use for the Son of Ham Only While the Australian Booths are in Operation.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Nov. 9, 1893.

EDITORS DEMOCRAT:

The colored voters of Greencastle have a few pertinent questions for the republican city council and the other city officials if you will accord us space. (1) Why should a colored man, who has a large family depending upon him and capable of doing nothing to support them except by hard manual labor, be discharged from the street force to give the position to a young white man with no family to support, who is not at all in need of the work and has many other resources? The white republicans of Texas kicked the negro out of the party. Is the same policy to obtain here? Have they no use for the colored man after the Australian booths are torn down? Another man was also brought in from the country and given a place, while the colored republican was rustling around for honest work to keep his children from starving. This man will not be easily whipped into line at the next election. We are taxpayers and some of us pay taxes on real estate. We are entitled to fair treatment and some recognition at the hands of the republican bosses at least. (2) It is rumored that Dow Whittaker is to have his little contract for breaking rock taken away from him and given to a favorite of the city ring. There is not a negro in the fire department even as a minute man. (3) Another report is to the effect that the colored school is to be abandoned on account of small attendance. Every man of color should see that his children attend school regularly and checkmate this movement by giving our colored teachers all possible assistance.

I appeal to every colored voter to do all in his power to see that we are accorded just representation. We have been led by the nose too long and a change in the way we vote may bring about the desired result.

A COLORED VOTER.

Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Andrew Ash has left with us a copy of the Putnam Republican Banner, Geo. J. Langsdale, editor, of June 4, 1868. The subscription price is $2 per year, invariably in advance. It contains a number of things that will be of interest to our readers; some of which are as follows:

Among the lawyers who advertised for business are, J. Birch, McKenzie & Donnhue, John S. Jennings, Hanna & Smith, J. S. Nutt, Solon Turman, M. A. Moore, and W. H. Thornburg. Prof. L. L. Rogers, of Asbury, is editor of an educational department. T. C. Hammond and Jerome Allen were, at present, president and cashier of the First National bank. Stanton's letter of resignation to President Johnson is printed. The bloody shirt is waved here and there. The names of Grant and Colfax are at the head of the editorial page in large, heavy, black-faced type under the legend, "National Union Republican Ticket." Delana E. Williamson is the candidate for attorney-general and Conrad Baker for governor. Levi Woodrum is sheriff of the county and Geo. W. Whitworth city clerk. Kit Carson, the great scout, is dead. John Gilmore is a candidate for the republican nomination for treasurer. Ex-President Buchanan died on June 2. Grant's letter of acceptance of the nomination for president is published. C. C. Matson has been elected president of the Putnam base ball club. T. C. Bowman treasurer. A. R. Brattin is a liberal advertiser. The hands at the nail mill, South Greencastle, drank too much whisky and had a general and free-for-all fight.

Death of John Briggs.

At 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon Howard Briggs received a telegram from his son Ed, at Chicago, which read, "John died this morning." The shock, coming so suddenly, was a hard one for Mr. and Mrs. Briggs to bear. When he visited Chicago recently, John—who was his youngest son, and was employed as a compositor on the Evening Mail of that city—was in comparatively good health, although he talked of going to Oregon to work for a change of climate. His relatives here had not been informed that he was ill, and do not yet know the cause of his death. Mr. Briggs left for Chicago Thursday night, and will bring the remains here for interment. The deceased was about twenty-three years of age, and was well known and liked in this city, where he grew to manhood. He leaves a young widow.

FOX RIDGE.

The spelling match was a success. Large crowd present.
Ezra Smith has moved to Ed Landes' property on South Bloomington street.
Jim Crawley had a tussle with a machine Monday and came out minus two shirt sleeves and plus a few external bruises, Lucky Jim.
There were three prominent coon hunters of this city went out Tuesday night, got lost and did not get in 'til Wednesday morning, foot sore and weary.
Death has again entered our community and taken Lizzie, the wife of Daniel Young, aged 32 years, 9 months and 14 days, of typhoid fever. She leaves a husband, one brother and three sisters to mourn her loss. The funeral took place on Tuesday at 3.30 p. m., at the church, conducted by Revs. Bill and Coffin; interment at Forest Hill cemetery.

BRIEF INTERVIEWS.

A POLICEMAN: "I was much pleased with the outspoken manner in which you expressed your views on the minor question. However, that is a falling of Tax Democrat, for it generally says what it thinks. Your remarks will do much good."

JOHN WATT: "Our secret ballot system is a terror to the politicians. You never can tell what the people are going to do. Under the old system the voters were marched to the polls like so many dumb animals driven to the slaughter, but now, thanks be to God who giveth us the victory, everything is changed."

A MECHANIC: "Republican profession and republican practice are unlike as day and night. Here in Greencastle they declare loudly in favor of protection to home industry, but when we take them at their word and establish a laundry here they go back on their promises and send their work to Indianapolis. This is especially true of the republican students. I have always noticed that the best friends of home industry are democrats."

A PARENT: "As the mother of three boys who are not yet of age I want to thank THE DEMOCRAT for the warning it gave the saloon keepers last week in regard to permitting minors to congregate in their places of business. We have good laws governing the liquor traffic if they were only strictly enforced. Saloon keepers should be made to understand by heavy fines that boys must be kept out of their houses. However, I am not a woman who claps her hands every time I hear a liquor dealer has been fined—they work hard, pay a heavy license and are engaged in a decidedly unpleasant business; yes, one so unpleasant that I cannot understand why a man should engage in it unless the profits are very large. Their business is recognized as legitimate by the granting of licenses and they are entitled to some consideration instead of wholesale abuse. If one of my boys becomes fascinated with pool or acquires an appetite for intoxicants, there is little comfort for me in the prosecution of the guilty man who violated the law. The harm has been done, the mother has no recourse. Here is the remedy: prevent the ruin of the boys of Greencastle by giving the saloon men to understand they must be kept out. If a warning is not sufficient, convince them of this fact by the heaviest fines the law allows. I have no word of abuse for the rum dealers, but as a mother I demand that they strictly comply with the law regarding minors."

Our Colored Citizens.

John Hayden and wife visited at Brazil Sunday.
Jerome Smith isn't in it as a sprinter any more. Mr. Townsend now wears the medal.
Rev. Stewart and wife were given a pleasant surprise party one evening recently.
Ever since returning from the Fair Will Miles has been crippled and Henry Bridges has been broke. They went together.
Mrs. Harvey Moore has returned from Chicago, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Townsend. She reports them prosperous.
John Townsend has received a fine present from his uncle in West Moldin, Canada. It is an elegant baritone horn, of the latest improved pattern, and John expects to create a big furor when he turns out with THE GREENCASTLE DEMOCRAT band.

Public Library is Flourishing.

The public library grows in popularity and usefulness. Last week's report shows that 287 persons used the rooms for reading and studying and 255 books were loaned during seven days. The three city papers have each donated copies for one year and this will add largely to the attractions of the reading rooms. A new list of books has lately been made out and will be ordered shortly. Seven magazines will be taken this year instead of four as heretofore.
As an institution it is one deserving of success and is beginning to be pretty generally patronized by our citizens.

Rubber Boots and Leather Boots.

On account of the advance in prices on all rubber goods, rubber boots will cost something this season. In fact they are so high that you can buy a first class leather boot for as little or less than you will pay for a first class rubber boot. Nevertheless they are a necessity and people will have them. We will handle this season the Boston Rubber Shoe Co.'s goods, the best made.

One word in regard to men's and boy's leather boots. I have the best practical line of custom boots made in the United States. They are manufactured by H. W. Gokey & Son, of Jamestown, N. Y.

The lasting, bottoming and siding is done by hand and the prices are so reasonable that even the chronic kicker can find nothing to growl about. Prices range from $2.50 on a stoga kip up to $3 and $4 on finer grades. They are the boots to buy. When you see our women's and misses' heavy shoes you will have no others.

THE ELECTIONS.

First Returns Show a Victory for Republicans.

Big Majorities for Their Tickets in Ohio, New York, Iowa, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Several Other States.

McKINLEY WINS IN OHIO. CINCINNATI, Nov. 8, 1:30 a. m.—Eight hundred and fifty precincts in the state give McKinley, 163,472; Neal, 104,576; plurality for McKinley, 58,896. The republicans have made heavy gains in every county and it is claimed by some that his majority will not fall short of 75,000, while in Hamilton county alone it will reach 15,000.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—The streets of this city are crowded with thousands of wild, enthusiastic republicans. The State Journal this morning nominates McKinley for president in 1896.

IN NEW YORK. NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Isaac H. Maynard has been defeated for associate judge of the court of appeals by 75,000 votes and the rest of the democratic state ticket is crowded along to defeat with him by a few thousand less adverse majority. The republicans are jubilant at the result, which includes the capture of the legislature as well by a majority of one in the senate and from two to five in the house. This overturns a democratic majority in the last legislature of twenty-two.

BROOKLYN, which has always been a democratic stronghold and counted good for from 10,000 to 15,000 majority for the state ticket, has overturned all prophecies and given the Republican candidates about 10,000 majority. The democratic candidate for mayor is also defeated by a slightly less vote.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The News claims that the city has gone republican by a clean sweep, the democrats saving only an occasional alderman.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 8.—Up to 1:30 a. m. returns have been received from 582 out of the 2,003 voting precincts in the state, which give Jackson 78,447 and Boies 50,301. This is a net republican gain of 2,847 and maintains the same ratio of increase indicating a plurality of over 30,000 for Jackson.

MASSACHUSETTS. BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The state election in Massachusetts was a republican victory. Three times the young democratic champion, William E. Russell, was chosen governor; but on Tuesday his successor upon the ticket, John E. Russell, was defeated by a plurality of from 25,000 to 30,000.

THE senate and house will both be republican by slightly increased majorities.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Judge Gary is undoubtedly reelected judge of the superior court of Cook county by a majority of from 5,000 to 7,000. With the possible exception of J. Henry Kraft the other judicial candidates on the republican ticket have also been elected by majorities varying from 1,000 to 5,000.

REPUBLICANS CARRY DETROIT. DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—Hazen S. Pingree, after the hottest contest ever seen in Detroit, is for the third time elected mayor over M. H. Godfrey by a majority that is conceded by democrats at 4,000. The republicans claim 6,000.

GRIFFIN DEFEATS STONE FOR CONGRESS. DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—The contest between James H. Stone (rep.), and Levi T. Griffin (dem.), for the seat in congress made vacant in the First Michigan district by the death of J. Logan Chipman, has been a hot one. Mr. Stone concedes his defeat by 1,000 majority.

NEW JERSEY. TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 8.—The fight this year in New Jersey was confined to the assembly and senate. The race track was the feature of the campaign. At midnight it seemed assured the anti-race track forces had won. The house will be republican and the senate democratic on account of the hold-over senators, but it is believed that the legislature will be republican on a joint ballot.

PENNSYLVANIA. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Pennsylvania elected a justice of the supreme court for a term of twenty-one years and a state treasurer for two years.

RETURNS from forty-nine of the sixty-seven counties, including Philadelphia and Allegheny, show a net republican gain of 46,553, indicating a majority in the state of considerably above 100,000.

POPULISTS WIN IN NEBRASKA. OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 8.—Returns from the state are coming in slowly and seem to indicate the election of Holcomb (pop.) for supreme judge by 5,000 over Harrison (rep.).

REPUBLICANS AHEAD IN KANSAS. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8.—The republicans will probably have a plurality of the vote cast in Kansas. They have carried Miami, Harvey and Montgomery counties. The democrats carried Leavenworth county.

KENTUCKY DEMOCRATIC. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 8.—Special reports at midnight indicate that the election was quiet all over the state, the democratic nominees having it all their own way in the great majority of districts.

IN MARYLAND. BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 8.—Returns from many parts of Maryland show the democrats have elected their candidate for state comptroller by a large plurality and substantial majority.

LOST IN LAKE HURON.

Two Big Steamers Collide and Sink—Two Men Drowned.

SAND BEACH, Mich., Nov. 8.—The steel steamer Albany, of the Western Transit company, and the iron steamer Philadelphia, of the Anchor line, collided on Lake Huron off Point Aux Barques at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning in a dense fog. The Albany was taken in tow by the Philadelphia, but sank in half an hour, its crew going on board the Anchor liner. Shortly afterward the Philadelphia went down in 200 feet of water. The crew took to two life-boats. One had twenty-two persons on board and reached the shore in safety. The other boat contained twenty-four people. It was capsized and all on board were lost.

THE Philadelphia caught the Albany just forward of No. 2 gangway, smashing in the steel plates and pushing its nose several feet into the Albany's body. The Philadelphia's nose was smashed flat, but for a few minutes after backing away seemed to make but little water. The Philadelphia immediately put out a line and took the Albany in tow, making for the shore at Point Aux Barques, 12 miles distant. The Albany made water rapidly, and less than thirty minutes later the men took to the yawl. A few minutes after the tow line was cut the Albany went down stern first in 200 feet of water. The Philadelphia waited until Capt. A. J. McDonald and his crew came up, when they were taken aboard.

Full steam was then put on for the shore, but in its water-logged condition little headway was made. By this time the wind began to blow, lifting the fog. The Philadelphia at this time began to settle. Capt. Huff decided to abandon it for the yawl. Capt. McDonald and seven of his crew were taken into the smaller yawl by Capt. Huff of the Philadelphia, who completed from his men the crew of fourteen decided upon as the carrying capacity of the yawl. The wind was by this time blowing stiffly from the north, lifting a choppy sea. Into the larger boat twenty-four men from both crews were loaded. It was realized that the load was a dangerous one. An attempt was made for the boats to keep in company, but the fog was so dense that they were soon parted and the two captains reached shore at 8 o'clock this morning. They were confident that the other boat was entirely safe, as they had no trouble themselves.

AS the morning hours went by and the second boat did not appear the captains called on the Point Aux Barques life saving crew to go in search of it. The fog had then lifted. After pulling out into the lake for several miles the life savers found the missing boat bottom up. In the immediate vicinity they found eleven bodies, all wearing life preservers marked "Str. Philadelphia."

THE bodies were put on the steamer City of Concord, bound for Tawas. No survivors could be found, and it is supposed that the remaining thirteen in the upturned boat did not wear the preservers and sank immediately after it capsized.

THE Albany was built in Detroit in 1884, was worth $300,000 and was partially insured. She belonged to the Western Transportation line, and carried a cargo of grain and flour valued at $17,000.

THE Philadelphia belonged to the Anchor line, and was built by David Bell at Buffalo in 1876. She was worth $80,000. Her cargo consisted of coal and merchandise. This is the fourth accident which the Anchor line has suffered this season. First, the steamer Codorus was cut down and sunk at Duluth, then the Conestoga went ashore in Lake St. Clair in the big October gale and badly damaged its cargo, and the Wissahickon caught fire at its dock at Erie and was badly damaged. The losses will foot up $150,000.

TO UPHOLD THE QUEEN. Uncle Sam May Restore Lillooalalani to the Hawaiian Throne.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—It is stated upon what is considered excellent authority that Minister Willis, who is supposed to have landed in Hawaii last Sunday, bore instructions to inform the provincial government that the United States regards the dethronement of Queen Lillooalalani as due entirely to the then Minister Stevens and the leading of the troops from the United States steamer Boston; that but for them the queen would not have been dethroned; that the United States government does not approve of the action of Stevens and therefore does not consider that there has been a revolution. But the United States does consider that the queen, having been unjustly deprived of her throne because of the wrongful action of the United States minister and troops, is entitled to be restored to power and restored she must be.

THIS position which the administration has taken is likely to give rise to much and severe criticism on the ground that it ill fits this republic to assist in the restoration of a deposed monarch. This criticism is expected. The administration's only explanation is that it matters not whether the deposed authority was a queen or a president. The authority was unlawfully overthrown by representatives of the United States and as a mere matter of abstract justice the wrong should be righted.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS., Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken. When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first. No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Read the Label. Send for Book.

DR. KILMER'S SWAMP-ROOT CURED ME. Had Torpid Liver For 14 Years. Biliousness, Poor Digestion, Loss of Appetite.

DEAR SIR:—I have been troubled with Torpid Liver for 14 years and gone through courses of Bilious fever; many times it has been impossible for me to do any kind of labor. Dr. Kilmer's SWAMP-ROOT was a first recommendation to me by Holthousen, Blackburn & Co., (Druggists) Dealer, Ind. After taking one bottle I was uncertain whether I was really deriving any benefit or not after taking the second bottle, however, I found that my health was improving and I continued until I had taken 6 bottles. I can now cheerfully recommend

THE DARK.

The dark comes with me up the stair,
It follows me to bed;
It watches while I say my prayer
Till the last word is said.

I scramble in beneath the sheet:
Down in the orchard rows,
The wind gets out his trumpet sweet,
And blows, and blows, and blows.

The dark is in my chamber here,
The wind out in the tree;
My mother says I need not fear
They will do ought to me.

For, far above the wind, the dark,
Sits God, who made them all—
The grass, the star like a red spark,
The green bough by the wall.

My mother with her lamp comes in;
The dark goes out the door;
The table-lights throw shadows thin
Across the chamber floor.

The wind from out the orchard slips;
Around the house he goes;
He sets his trumpet to his lips,
And blows, and blows, and blows.

Why She Wouldn't Go.

MISS WILHELMINA PARKS and her father were staying in London. They had been in Paris for some time, too, partly because they were from Boston, but mainly because Wilhelmina had made there some special purchases for her new adventure.

She proposed to sail for Christiania from Hull, in the middle of the month, and already the papers had interviewed her, and "Miss Wilhelmina Parks, the Female Franklin—by One Who Knows Her," appeared in nearly every paper that you picked up.

They had all been to Lord's, and Dr. Fraser and his cousin, Mrs. Waldershare, had been brought back to dinner at the hotel.

"Well," said Miss Wilhelmina, "I ain't no use talking, you know. My mind's set on this trip, and I'm going to do it."

"I know, my girl," said old Mr. Parks—"I know. You wouldn't be a Parks if you was to give way now and go back on your reputation."

"And I'll just go and make a name for myself and then I'll come right back, and—she glanced at Dr. Fraser—"and then we'll be happy."

Young Dr. Fraser pressed the young lady's foot affectionately beneath the table, and little Mrs. Waldershare smiled.

"I wish you were all coming with me," she went on. "Ain't it just pleasant now even to talk of flocks of ice and miles of untracked snow, and—and so on."

"Did you say the boat was ready, Meener?" asked her father.

"As near ready as doesn't matter," answered Wilhelmina. "The men are engaged, the stores are purchased, and when I get to Christiania I shall only have a fortnight's work to do. And in two or three years, you know, I shall be through." She looked at her sweet-heart with her eyes bright with enthusiasm. "Say, Frank, we'll be married at the Abbey, if the trick comes off."

All the time young Dr. Fraser looked thoughtfully out of the window.

"If you won't say another word about it," he remarked. "If you'll just let me say this."

"Go on, dear," said Miss Parks. She and Mrs. Waldershare rose as she spoke, and the men rose, too.

"That I'd give everything, everything that I possess in the world," said Fraser, still looking hard out of the window. "If it would only induce you to give it up."

She came to him.

"My dear boy," she said, "that can't be; but you're just the sweetest fellow to say so, and—and I shall think of you dreadfully."

Mrs. Waldershare had scribbled furtively a note on the menu which she came back to show the young fellow.

"Before I forget it, Frank," said the little woman, "is this the right way to spell compote aux fruits?"

TRICKS IN LAWMAKING.

Mr. Springer's Experience when He Was Clerk of the Illinois House.

When a young man Hon. William M. Springer was clerk of the Illinois house of representatives. There was an appropriation bill consisting of a number of items before the legislature. An attempt was made to have incorporated in it an item appropriating the sum of fifty thousand dollars for a certain purpose. A majority of the house was opposed to this particular appropriation. The bill as reported did not contain the objectionable item. When it came to its final reading Mr. Springer read the bill in full. The members listened attentively and noted the fact that the fifty thousand dollar item was not included in the bill as read.

Mr. Springer laid the bill down on his desk after reading it, and, taking up the list, called the roll, the Illinois constitution requiring a ye and nay vote on the final passage of a bill. The legislature, being economical, had no supernumerary officers, so that one man had to perform the duties usually devolving upon two or more persons. The bill was passed, and Mr. Springer noted that fact on the back of the printed copy of the bill and sent it over to the senate. It passed that body and was signed by the governor. It was soon discovered that the act which received the gubernatorial autograph had incorporated in it the objectionable item.

This looked serious, for the house, at least, had not intended to pass that item, and as a matter of fact had not passed it, for it was not included in the bill as read and voted upon in that body. Mr. Springer was equal to the emergency. He caused the journal to show that the bill was read in full and then incorporated it in the journal, thus showing officially that the objectionable item had not been voted upon or adopted by the house. A writ was then sued out enjoining the state treasurer from paying the money. The supreme court granted it and made it perpetual, thus going behind the approving signature of the governor and the attesting signatures of the presiding officers of the two houses of the legislature to the journal of the house, and accepting it as the best evidence of the intention and act of the house of representatives and of the legislature.

Whether the entire act was invalid was not passed upon, and as no injunction was applied for as to the other items the appropriations they carried stood and were paid.

Mr. Springer thinks someone interested in the fifty-thousand-dollar appropriation had a bogus bill printed in exact imitation of the genuine, and when, after reading it, he had laid the genuine bill down on his desk the spurious one was substituted quickly and the genuine carried off and destroyed. There being a crowd about the desk at the time it was easy enough to do this, Mr. Springer said. Naturally, he indorsed what appeared to be the proper bill without reading it again. His ready wit, however, enabled him to defeat the game of the conspirators, even when it seemed to be too late to do anything to repair the mischief. It was never learned, Mr. Springer said, who played the sleight-of-hand trick.—Washington Post.

—A charming creature on whom the Ladies Dote.

When a young man first gets his commission as a line officer in active service in the navy he becomes an ensign. Landsmen call it ensign with a long "i" in the second syllable, but every body afloat pronounces the word "onsin," with a short "i." There is seldom any occasion on shipboard for pronouncing it at all, as the ensign is addressed as plain "mister." The ensign is a graduate of the naval academy, and ordinarily obtains his commission after four years' study ashore and two years' cruising. There are now one hundred and seventy-seven ensigns, some with very new commissions, a few who have been as much as ten years of that rank. They range in age from twenty-one to two-and-thirty. Old naval officers who recall the days of the midshipmite are sometimes disposed to treat the ensigns as boys, and it is not many years since ensigns twenty-eight or thirty years of age found themselves under a sort of discipline which required them to be aboard ship by nine o'clock at night.

The ensign is necessarily a watch officer. He never commands even the smallest ship, unless everybody above him is dead or disabled, a rare contingency in time of peace. Sometimes he belongs to the wardroom mess, and sometimes he messes in the steerage, along with the naval cadets, the paymaster's clerk and the like. This arrangement is not so much for the sake of emphasizing distinctions of rank as to enable the ensign, whose sea pay is only from one thousand two hundred to one thousand four hundred dollars according to length of service, to live more cheaply than it is possible to live in the wardroom. Big ships have four or five ensigns and little ships usually two. Every ensign is a man of good physique, fair technical education, excellent mental training and some social accomplishments. One occasionally encounters in the ensign the marks of a coarse, undisciplined nature, snobbishly mindful of the social privileges belonging to his profession and of the rank that may one day be his distinction. One more often finds a graceful, modest, well-mannered young man, patriotically proud of his profession and conscious that the obligation of courtesy and manliness rests upon one who carries beneath his simple jacket the glittering buttons of the admiral. Enthusiasm is a characteristic commonly found in the ensign, and rare in higher ranks of the navy. He is a favorite of the ladies, for he has the inextinguishable charm of youth, the grace of straight limbs in a beautifully simple uniform and the promise of future rank.—Chicago Post.

FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

THE SAND MAN.

The sand man lives down on the beach,
Where the waves roll on and on,
He always keeps just out of reach
Till the day is past and done.

I look for him and dig and delve,
But he never can be found,
Yet six hours after half past twelve
He is sure to come around.

I wish he'd show himself to me
And not wait until the night,
When it's so dark I cannot see
Anything that is not light.

I want to ask him why he takes
Little boys and girls alone,
And leaves the big folks wideawakes,
Until half the night is gone.

I'm going to dig for him some day
Right down through the miles of sand,
Until he's found, or I cut a way
Clear through to some foreign land.

BOYS ON A CRUISE.

How Two Youngsters Became Acquainted with a New Teacher.

Two boy relatives of mine, who have been spending their summer holiday at a tiny seaside town in Sussex, have recently become possessors of a small sailing boat, and a delightful time they have had for the last month.

Of course they can handle a boat well. Their happy childhood was spent in a quaint fishing village on the east coast of England, and as tiny boys of six and eight they were continually taken out by the hardy boatmen in their big fishing luggers. As they grew older the same rough but kindly friends taught them to row and swim and skillfully sail a boat, and the oldest boatman on the beach—a crippled, white-haired veteran—would say, when asked sometimes if such young boys were safe alone upon the water, that there was very little about boats that he could teach Master Tom and Jack, "sartin sure."

And they have had some adventures, too. I remember once when I was a guest in their home we three, myself and the two boys, started one bright July afternoon for a cruise to the Goodwin sands and back. It was a long sail, but we didn't mind; we were going to have a picnic tea in the boat and return home by moonlight.

Well, we carried out our programme and enjoyed ourselves thoroughly. Coming back a stiff breeze sprang up and our staunch little Queen of the May perfectly flew along. Suddenly in a little silence that had fallen upon us all after the somewhat noisy singing of glees and part-songs, a sound like a cry of somebody in distress was wafted across the waters. We did not take much notice of it at first, thinking it was the seabirds, whose cries are sometimes so human, but in another moment we heard it again, this time more distinctly, and we realized then that it was the word "Help" that was being called out.

We all felt dreadfully excited as we peered out over the moonlit sea; then Jack's sharp eyes descried a small black object away to the left of the boat, and, with our hearts beating with excitement, we altered our course and made for it as speedily as we could. As we came nearer we saw the floating object was a small boat, and we could see some figures in it. Then we used our healthy young lungs in an encouraging shout to "hold on," and in a few minutes came up to the distressed craft. We found it to be a very small rowing boat. A young man with his coat off sat in the center, baling out water, while a lady and a tiny fair-haired girl of three or four years were crouched down at one end. And we were to be the rescuers of the forlorn little party! Here was an exciting adventure! In a few moments we had them safely in our gallant Queen of the May, the rowing boat was made fast to ours, and we started for the shore. The rescued ones told us that they had hired the boat that afternoon to go for a row, and coming home they were horrified to find that she had sprung a leak, and, to make matters worse, in searching for a baler one of the oars became unshipped and slipped away, and they found themselves, poor things, drifting away every moment farther from home, helpless to do anything but bale the water out.

And they had been in this sad plight nearly two hours when their cries attracted our notice. How tired and worn they looked, and with what importance and delight we brewed them a hot, delicious cup of tea each with our spirit lamp. The color came back to the faces of the poor, frightened lady and little girl and the wee maid sat on merry Jack's knee, and the two made a bond of friendship together.

And when we landed and bade goodbye to our rescued friends it seemed funny to learn that the gentleman in the trio was none other than the new master who had come to the school my two boy friends were at, and whose acquaintance—owing to its being holiday-time—they had not yet made. And the lady, who was his sister, and her little girl had never been on the sea before, and the former declared that her first trip would be her last.—Pall Mall Budget.

"Yes, indeed; even wool shirts sometimes shrink."—Truth.

BABY'S BOUNCING RIDE.

Curious Adventure of a Little Child in a Furniture Van.

The other afternoon, just as the sun was sinking beneath the housetops, a tired, worn-looking little woman, carrying a baby of about eighteen months in her arms, crossed over from the west to the east side, and started up town. Just as she reached the corner of Prince street, she met a lady and gentleman, with whom she was evidently acquainted, and the trio stopped and began a conversation.

The baby was not only plump and heavy for its age, but it was also extremely nervous and fidgeted in the little mother's arms, like a young angle worm. Just to the right of the party and headed eastward on Prince street, stood a large empty furniture van with the rear gate down. Upon the tail-board of this van the mother of the wiggling youngster leaned, first on one elbow and then on the other, shifting the animated baby in her arms at each change. Finally the conversation grew more interesting, the baby more restless and the mother more fatigued, until at last she placed the baby in the van. This seemed to tickle the youngster immensely, for he at once settled down into a state as near that of quietude as it was possible for his lively disposition to allow him to assume. So quiet did he become, in fact, that the mother seemed to forget his presence, and became still more deeply engrossed in the animated conversation she was holding with her lady friend.

Suddenly the sleepy driver of the van awoke to a realization of the fact that he might as well be moving on, and, gathering up his reins, he popped his whip, and, before the young mother realized the situation, away went the van, thundering along out Prince street, with her dear little darling bouncing about in it like an over-dressed rubber doll. Dropping the conversation, she cried out:

"Oh, my baby!" and dashed away in the wake of the furniture van, followed by her two friends, a policeman, two newsboys, a fat man with a palmetto fan, a pie woman, a newspaper man and a black-and-tan pup, all at different rates of speed. Everybody was yelling: "Stop!" at the top of his voice, but the falls of Niagara could not have drowned them out any more completely or effectually than did the lumbering of the van, and the driver remained oblivious of the fact that he had a lively load, and was creating as much excitement as would a street car on Fifth avenue.

At last, just as he slacked up to turn a corner, the plucky little mother, who had held the lead all along, caught up, and lucky it was that she did, for just at that moment the animated little piece of unwilling baggage bounced out of the end of the van and right into her arms.

The baby was crying, the mother was weeping with one eye and laughing for joy with the other, the reporter and her two friends were congratulating her, the newsboys were yelling, the policeman was still chasing the van, the fat man was puffing and blowing half a block away, but still trotting on to be in after, if not at, the death, while the pie woman had fallen down over the frisky terrier, scattering pies from one curb to the other; and, taken altogether, the scene was about as laughable in its denouement, as it had promised to be tragic, when the baby began its involuntary ride.—N. Y. Recorder.

GEOGRAPHICAL JOKE.

How Some Japanese Officials Silenced a French Emissary.

The Japanese are a very polite people, but they sometimes like to play a joke, in a roundabout, oriental way, upon the men of the west. In the days of the second empire Baron Gros was sent to Japan to demand the opening of certain ports to French commerce. Among the rest he named to the Japanese ministers a certain city.

The Japanese functionaries smiled so broadly when he preferred the request that the French ambassador asked them to tell him what gave them so much amusement; but instead of answering the Japanese ministers said:

"We will open the port in question, my lord, if France, in her turn, will open a certain port to us."

"What port is that?" asked the Frenchman.

"The port of Liverpool."

"But, your excellencies," laughing, "Liverpool is not a French port, but an English one."

"Yes?" answered the Japanese. "And the port you named is not in Japan, but in Corea."

The French ambassador was compelled to admit that the joke was upon him.

A Philosophic Query.

Tommy—Are you going to whip me, mamma?

Mamma—Yes, I am, Tommy.

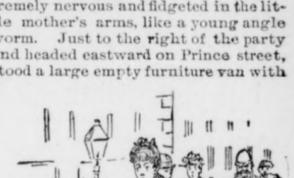

Tommy—You said the other day that whipping never did me any good, didn't you?

Mamma—I believe I did.

Tommy—Then what's the use of whipping me again?—Harper's Young People.

In the words of that famous remark, "We expected it."

HERE'S to tariff reform. May Congress speedily accomplish it.

EVERY shrewd democrat hopes the g. o. p. will put up McKinley in '96.

THE latest returns: Pennsylvania has gone republican and Kentucky democratic.

It is a blessing in disguise. When Congress meets no more filibustering will be permitted.

THE Indianapolis Sentinel charges that the A. P. A. is being used to break down organized labor.

EDITOR Moss, of the Bloomfield Democrat, has been appointed a supervisor of Indian schools.

CLEVELAND'S "wildhorses" have now been "broken in" and tariff reform will be accomplished without unnecessary delay or lengthy wrangle.

THAT republican party, supposed to be dead, seems to be very much in the saddle. Well, our work is cut out for us—we'll have to give it another pair of black-eyes and put it to sleep for keeps.

To all jubilant republicans: Stop shouting so loud and ponder for a few minutes over the fact that there is a hereafter. In the slang but expressive phrase of the day, "we won't do a thing to you" the next time we put up the Australian booths.

Most people have found out the "cruel war" is over, but the editor of the Lafayette Quohosh is still tearing around like a man with cancer of the liver. He fights his shadow, waves the bloody shirt and makes a nincompoop of himself at every opportunity. How many rebels did you kill in battle, Mr. Quohosh-man? What glorious deeds did you do? We want to know. You write too pompously to have ever been much of a soldier.

For whatever comes, Democracy is responsible. —Danville Republican.

O, of course! Democracy is responsible for the depleted condition of the treasury handed down by the Harrison administration and the late panic occasioned by vicious republican legislation, is it? If a cyclone should tear Hendricks county up by the roots the Republican belongs to that class of bitterly partisan papers which would loudly proclaim that Cleveland had bred the big wind storm by inflating his cheeks and whistling "Maggie Murphy's Home," or, if we desired to quote Rabelais, something more potent. Such bosh will not deceive any intelligent reader of the hide-bound republican organ of Hendricks.

THE Lafayette Herald occasionally gives vent to an A. P. A. belch calculated to turn any decent man's stomach and make him sea sick. As the DEMOCRAT predicted, the infamous order gathered courage and reinforcements as the result of the Indianapolis election, although it had little to do with the defeat of Sullivan. It is now in the saddle and frothing at the mouth with mistaken zeal. We again predict that it will kill politically every man who touches it as dead as a smelt. Jump in, little two-for-a-nickel politicians, and we'll see that your graves are kept green and the dog-fennel "growing all around."

We were struck with an item from a Russellville DEMOCRAT reporter this week which reads, "The Reading Circle meets every Wednesday night." We wish every neighborhood in Putnam county had a similar society. The winter evenings are long and dull, it is impossible to attend church or singing school every night and such a gathering as a reading circle will not only result in much instruction, improvement and the acquirement of considerable information, but will also prove of great social enjoyment. We hope our readers will organize them.

CHAIRMAN WILSON, of the ways and means committee, is not discouraged by the recent catastrophe. He says: "I am mighty glad it came now instead of later in the administration. The election in Virginia shows that the populist uprising has not gathered any headway. As soon as democratic measures can be taken to restore prosperity to the country everything will be all right again."

THE Indianapolis News rejoices at the weakness of the populace party as shown in the election returns. It says: "No other political party, we think, ever arose in this country that attempted to carry so large and varied an assortment of political heresies and exploded theories."

EX-GOVERNOR CAMPBELL, of Ohio, hit the nail on the head when he spoke as follows, in giving his views on the result of the election to the associated press: "The fear of tariff revision had nothing to do with it whatever."

It is a Legal and Legitimate Traffic. In commenting on the Champer screen ordinance case the Richmond Register says:

"Now what will the good people of Connorsville and other places, who have made such a spread to secure a screen ordinance, and divided those who wished to outlaw the traffic, do about it? The judge's head is fairly level after all, for if the traffic is made legal and legitimate by law, it is entitled to the same rights and protection as other business, and those who would nurse it, yet satisfy their conscience by annoying it, cannot escape this conclusion."

If the DEMOCRAT can get a second, it moves the liquor laws be strictly enforced, people attend to their own business, and the saloon men be given a rest for awhile at least.

THE following editorial extract is from the Rockville Republican. The editor evidently has partisan-gear wheels in his head:

"We are not one bit envious, therefore after strict heart-searching, we announce to a waiting and breathless world that we do not in the least envy Grover Cleveland his job of writing the annual thanksgiving proclamation this year. What good thing can he say as a nation ought to be thankful for?"

A man capable of putting such "stuff" in print should be thankful that the Almighty permits him to crawl the earth.

TRUE to the know-nothing principles of the republican party the Indianapolis Journal is making a stiff defence of the famous A. P. A. organization. That paper has long been noted for its abuse of the "flannel-mouthed Irish" and "beer guzzling Dutch" and foreign born citizens of all nationalities. If the Irish and Germans can swallow the attacks of the State organ of the g. o. p. and its A. P. A. annex, they are welcome to the dose.

MCKINLEY'S victory will not strengthen the position of the High protectionists although it will be claimed as an endorsement of that side of the tariff question. Many things contributed to the defeat of the democrats in that hide-bound republican State. The hope that Neal could win was not indulged in by any reasonable democrat.

THE elections following a change of administration are always favorable to the opposition. That result is inseparable from an "off year" verdict at the ballot-box. It is well enough to remind the "powers that be" that "we the people" are supreme, and that no political organization has a lien upon their sovereignty.

OUR country friends, whose opportunities for social enjoyment are necessarily limited, cannot make better use of these long winter evenings than by the organization of reading clubs. The benefits to be derived from these literary feasts are incalculable.

ELECTION results in "off years" furnish few facts upon which to base predictions for the future. They usually stir up the defeated party and cause it to get in good fighting shape by the time the next battle of the ballots is on.

In glancing over the election returns one is forced to conclude that the populists didn't raise much dust as they marched along "the middle of the road."

LET the democratic party promptly carry out the pledges of its platform and all will be lovely before the next election. Mr. Cleveland will see that this is done, and well done.

SMALL favors thankfully received, larger ones in proportion. We still have a death grip on Kentucky, Maryland and Virginia.

James U. Edwards the New Assignee.

The following petition was filed Monday:

To the Hon. Samuel M. McGregor, Judge of the Putnam circuit court:
The undersigned Quinton Broadstreet and James H. C. Nelson, would respectfully show that on the 24th day of October, 1893, they were appointed and qualified as the assignees of Franklin P. Nelson, of Greencastle, Indiana, and have been acting as such since said date; that they are informed and believe that there will be considerable litigation involved in the settlement of said assignment; that they require them to devote most of their time and attention to the management and settlement of the business connected with said assignment; that most of the embassments and liabilities of the assignor are immediately traceable to the unwise management of the Muncie Iron and Nail Co., in which he was largely interested; to properly investigate which would require of the assignees much time from their other business interests; and in as much as they are of the opinion that such investigation should be made to subserve the best interests of the creditors, and since they have not the time to properly perform the duties involved in such investigation and to discharge the other important matters relating to the proper settlement of the assignment, they most respectfully resign their said trust, and request that, after making to your honor a report of their management thus far, they be finally relieved from any further liability on account of said trust.
JAMES H. C. NELSON,
Greencastle, Indiana, November 6, 1893.

On Thursday Judge McGregor appointed Hon. Jas. U. Edwards, of Carpentersville, as the new assignee. The appointment is a splendid one in every way and all interested are perfectly satisfied and can rest assured that their interests will be properly taken care of. "Jim" Edwards is known and liked throughout the county, and no better or more thoroughly qualified man for the place could have been found within the borders of the State. Smiley & Neff and J. H. James are his attorneys.

The Boys are Coming Home. Indianapolis Sentinel.

Information from the counties of northern Indiana indicates that the Farmers' alliance is rapidly going to pieces. Many of the lodges have surrendered their charters, and it is said that in some localities the organization, which was formerly large and vigorous, has now dwindled to that point where single figures will denote the membership. The alliance, which was founded on the idea that trusts and monopolies were becoming dangerous and should be resisted, may now easily find a welcome in the democratic party. Its members will never find a congenial home in the republican party, which has feasted and fattened upon trusts, monopolies and high protective tariff fruits for lo these many years.

What Hit Us. Nashville (Tenn.) American.

Hard times, which are always ascribed to the dominant party, and lack of courage on the part of a democratic senate caused the defeat of the democrats in the state elections Tuesday. While the elections were held in an off year, had the senate acted promptly upon the financial question of prime moment the result in some states would have been different. Bad nominations in others gave the republicans a decided advantage. Notwithstanding this set-back if the democrats will stand by Mr. Cleveland the lost ground can and will be recovered.

A Ship Load of Dynamite Explodes at Santander, Spain.

Three Hundred Citizens Killed and Over 400 Wounded—Many Buildings Blown Down—Fire Follows and Completes the Ruin.

HORROR ABROAD.

SANTANDER, Spain, Nov. 7.—By the explosion of a ship load of dynamite Friday night hundreds of persons were killed and half of the town destroyed. Crowds were on the quay watching the vessel burn when suddenly her dangerous cargo blew up, instantly killing the daring fire fighters and spectators, scattering parts of the burning boats all over the city and wrecking many buildings. Fire followed the explosion, which many took for an earthquake, and before it could be checked half the town was in ruins. In the excitement the number of dead was placed at 1,000, but 300 is probably nearer the correct figure. Among the dead are the governor of the province, the prefect, the chief of police and two judges. The marquis of Pombal is missing and it is believed he is among the dead.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The Madrid correspondent of the Standard in his report about the Santander disaster says that after the explosion terror-stricken crowds on the wharf rushed off in the maddest disorder, trampling each other down and carrying panic into the city. The burning debris set fire to the railway station at Solares, 13 miles distant from Santander.

Fifty private houses on Mendos and Vigos streets were destroyed by the flames. In addition to these losses, several important public buildings and valuable archives were burned before any headway could be gained on the fire.

Among the victims were the civil governor, several judges, the captain of the port, his daughter, the colonel commanding the troops and gendarmes, several government officials, officers, magistrates, policemen, soldiers and Marquis Casatombó.

Official telegrams state that many bodies have been recovered from the bay of Biscay and from the ruins. The material losses chiefly consist of the great number of houses burned and which are valued at £300,000.

According to official telegrams the latest accounting shows that 300 persons were killed and 450 wounded.

The scene following the blowing-up of the steamer is almost indescribable, and the effect of the explosion of these 400 cases of dynamite will hardly be believed. The power of the explosive shot tons of iron into the air, where it mingled with the burning fragments of the steamship, tug and wooden quay, as well as with the mangled bodies of hundreds of the unfortunate people who were hurled upward at the same time.

Over the adjoining buildings tottering with wreckage fell a shower of iron followed by huge pieces of wood and the remains of human bodies, and above all dropped flaming splinters which set fire to hundreds of buildings, causing a scene of panic similar, one would imagine, to the one which would have succeeded the bursting forth of a volcano at the water's edge.

The force of the exploding dynamite caused such a concussion that in addition to shaking hundreds of buildings of their foundations it actually sunk a hundred small craft in the harbor in addition to setting fire to a large number of other vessels and starting conflagrations upon several of the larger ships, including the Alfonso XII, which vessel caught fire so suddenly and burned so fiercely that forty of her crew lost their lives on board of her.

The effect of the explosion upon the inhabitants of Santander was bewildering. For some time after the disaster they were positively stunned with dismay and then followed a panic during which 100 people are reported to have gone stark mad, while the vast majority were so paralyzed with fear and shock that they were incapable of moving to the assistance of the dying or of making any effort to extinguish the flames, which sprang up from a mass of buildings and which began to spread with the most threatening rapidity. The quay and promenade close to the scene of the explosion presented the most sickening sight ever witnessed. Mangled and blackened corpses were scattered here and there or were in heaps in many cases upon the wounded and dying, whose fearful shrieks of agony filled the air and struck terror into the hearts of those who after a time summoned sufficient courage to venture near.

Over 100 are said to have been precipitated into the sea by the explosion, and there beneath this hail of blood, wood and iron they met death with the crews of the unfortunate steamer and the tugboat which was about to tow her into the bay. On board the tugboat were many citizens of Santander, who were taking part in the work of rescue. All of them have disappeared forever.

A train from the province which was just arriving at the railroad station when the Cabo Machichaco blew up experienced the force of the explosion, was wrecked and set fire to and the majority of its passengers were burned to death before any assistance could be furnished them.

THE EXTRA SESSION ENDED.

Congress Adjourns on Friday—Resume of Its Work.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Both branches of congress, in special session, adjourned sine die at 8 p. m., on Friday. President Cleveland's nomination of Mr. Hornblower, of New York, for the United States supreme court was held off until the last moment and was finally defeated by inaction.

At the extraordinary session sixteen joint resolutions and seventeen bills became laws. Three of these joint resolutions were signed Friday and nine of the bills. The last proposition to become law was the joint resolution amending the act approved April 25, 1890, relating to the admission of articles intended for the World's Columbian exposition. Other bills signed Friday were as follows:

Transferring the model battleship Illinois to the state of Illinois as a naval armory; donating abandoned cannon to the G. A. R. at Pittsburgh, Pa.; act amending the Geary Chinese law; to regulate terms of the United States circuit and district courts in the state of South Dakota; increasing the number of officers of the army and navy to be detailed to colleges; to regulate the fees of the clerk of the United States court for the Indian territory; amending an act to provide for holding terms of United States court in Idaho and Wyoming; amending section 2324 of revised statutes relating to mining claims; providing for the construction of steam engine cutter for service on the great lakes, and an act in regard to the world's fair prize winners exposition to be held in New York city.

Additional important bills which were signed by the president during the extra session included the famous silver bill repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman act. Also the following:

LET ALL GIVE THANKS.

November 30 Set Apart as a Day of Prayer and Gratitude.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The president on Friday afternoon issued the following Thanksgiving day proclamation:

"By the president of the United States of America—A Proclamation:

"While the American people should every day remember, by praise and thanksgiving, the goodness and mercy which have followed them since their beginning as a nation, it is fitting that one day in each year should be especially devoted to the contemplation of the blessings we have received from the hand of God, and to the grateful acknowledgement of His loving kindness.

"Therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 30th day of the present month of November, as a day of thanksgiving and praise, to be kept and observed by all the people of our land. On that day let us forego our ordinary work and employments and assemble in our usual places of worship, where we may recall all that God has done for us and where, from grateful hearts, our united tribute of praise and song may reach the Throne of Grace. Let the union of kindred and the social meeting of friends lend cheer and enjoyment to the day and let generous gifts of charity for the relief of the poor and needy prove the sincerity of our thanksgiving.

"Witness my hand and the seal of the United States I have caused to be hereto affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington on the third day of November in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and ninety-three and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and eighteenth.

TRIED TO ROB A BANK.

A Once Wealthy and Eminent Resident of Kansas City in Trouble.

HARRISONVILLE, Mo., Nov. 6.—Thomas H. Edwards, once a prominent republican politician of Kansas City, Mo., once assessor of that city by appointment and twice assessor of the county by election, lies in the county jail at this place charged with attempted bank robbery. He entered the First national bank of this city about noon Friday, and finding Cashier Houston alone assaulted him. Houston managed to secure his revolver, when Edwards, who was unarmed, and who seemed to be acting under a sudden impulse, ran out of the front door only to fall into the arms of two citizens who were passing. He was at once taken to the county jail. Edwards was at one time reputed to be worth a million dollars. He was successful in politics and in real estate speculations. When the boom burst a few years ago, however, his luck turned and one bad investment following another, he wound up his business in Kansas City a year or more ago a ruined man.

A WAREHOUSE BURNED.

Fire Causes Considerable Damage at the Illinois Penitentiary.

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 6.—A warehouse just outside the walls of the Illinois state penitentiary took fire at 11:30 a. m. Friday. The fire started in the middle of the building in the broom-corn stock, and from there went to the chair stock, where the fire wall stopped the flames from going into the box lumber stock of Selz, Schwab & Co. The state's loss will be about $7,500, with no insurance. Selz, Schwab & Co.'s loss by water on the lumber will be about $400, fully insured. There was no excitement among the convicts inside the wall and they did not know a fire was so near them. A lot of convicts working in the building and outside rallied to the aid of the officers, doing good work in saving the stock. Warden Allen had about $1,500 worth of household goods of his own stored in the building and ex-Warden Dement had some goods stored, which were destroyed.

AN OCEAN HORROR.

The Steamship City of Alexandria Burned Off Havana.

Details of the Disaster Are Somewhat Meager, But It Is Thought That Thirty-Four Persons Have Lost Their Lives.

MANY PERISHED.

HAVANA, Nov. 4.—The steamship City of Alexandria, belonging to the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship company, from Havana and Matanzas for New York, has been burned off Cojimar, entailing a loss of life estimated at thirty-four. The news was brought to the city early Wednesday morning, when a small boat, in which were the second officer and eleven other persons from the City of Alexandria entered the harbor and reported the loss of the steamer. They say an explosion occurred Wednesday afternoon on board the steamer, and shortly after it was burning fiercely. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

The fire gained such headway that Capt. Hoffman saw it would be impossible to save the vessel, and orders were given to abandon the ship. The steamer had 400 hogsheads of rum on board, and this, when it caught fire, caused immense masses of flame to ascend from the hatchways, the hatches having been blown off. There was great excitement on board, but the officers soon succeeded in restoring order. As soon as the fire alarm was sounded the crew went to their fire stations and the stewards began to carry provisions to the boats. There was comparatively little sea running, and only slight difficulty was experienced in lowering away the boats, when the bell forward tolled the signal "abandon the ship." The scene at the burning of the steamer was only 25 miles from Havana and the officer in command of the boat had little fear of not reaching that port or some other place along the coast.

In the first moment of terror several men are said to have jumped into the sea. Those who arrived in the small boat Thursday morning said sixty had been drowned, many of them through the upsetting of a boat. Later reports, however, show that none of the small boats upset and that many of those at first reported as lost reached Bacuranao in safety. The number of persons drowned is now believed to be thirty-four or thirty-five. Among them were Herr Leibinger, a cabin passenger, whose home is in Germany, and several Cuban stevedores. When the news of the disaster reached here a number of tugs was sent to the burning steamer to render what assistance they could. Two of these tugs have returned, bringing nineteen survivors from the vessel.

A BIG FIRM FAILS.

S. Blaisdell, Jr., & Co., Cotton and Wool Dealers of Chicago, Mass., Assigns.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 4.—The failure of the firm of S. Blaisdell, Jr., & Co., of Chicago, wholesale dealers in cotton and wool stock, is announced. It was established in 1850, and its business has extended from Halifax to California in this country and from Sweden to Spain in Europe. It has agents scattered all over the country and the annual sales of the firm have amounted to between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. When these facts are considered it will be a surprise to learn that the entire liabilities are placed at the comparatively small sum of $275,000. There are notes of the firm outstanding with real and nominal endorsements amounting to $355,000. The cause of the failure is that the firm has been unable to find a market for its goods at any price.

IN BEHALF OF SILVER.

An Address by United States Senators and Representatives and an Appeal by President Warner of the American Bimetallic League.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The populist members of congress, including senators and members of the house, have issued an address appealing to the people to take up the silver cause, a synopsis of which is here given:

The address begins with the statement of the aggregate debts of the world and of the gold and silver in existence, calls attention to the fact that the arts require almost the total gold production, and says the decrease of the volume of this metal caused by hoarding has caused to appreciate 40 to 50 per cent. The address continues:

"The repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act destroys silver as money of ultimate redemption and reduces that metal to credit money—first only by redemption in gold. The $1,000,000,000 of paper and silver now in circulation must rest upon less than $100,000,000 of gold in the treasury as available for redemption. The only reason for demonetizing silver was to enhance the value of gold and obligations payable in money. It is further proposed to sell bonds of the United States and buy gold to strengthen the reserves in the treasury. National banks will use the bonds for banking and issue their notes, upon which the people must pay interest, as well as on the bonds."

After reviewing the silver legislation since 1873, it is asserted that the secretary of the treasury surrendered the option to pay in silver to the exporters of gold without consideration, and then proclaimed that the Sherman act was driving gold out of the country. The address asserts in effect that the Sherman act interfered with the establishment of a gold standard, and that the New York and London bankers and the present administration in the United States and in the Gladstone government in England conspired to force its repeal, saying: "The president issued a call for an extra session of congress in which he attributed the panic which he himself had added to create to the Sherman act."

Referring to the contest over the repeal bill in the senate, the address says it continued until the gold power and federal patronage could induce a majority of that body to submit to executive dictation. The gold press in every commercial center teamed with misrepresentation, insult and abuse of the unpurchasable defenders of the people. Banks, boards of trade, and the commercial press demanded a vote without debate. The power of money was felt on every hand. Intimidation and threats of personal violence loaded the mails of senators.

The document ends with an appeal to the people to study the question, and with the "trust no man who once betrayed you. Put no faith in any president who assumed dictatorial power. Do not be overawed or intimidated by Wall street and the power of the national bank. When the people rise in their might, intrigue, cunning, usurpation, bribery and corruption will vanish before them."

The paper is signed by the following: Senators—W. A. Peffer, John P. Jones, William M. Stewart, James H. Kvie, William V. Allen. Representatives—John Davis, William C. Coker, H. B. Howell, S. H. Harris, T. J. Hudson, Jerry Simpson, Laie Pease, O. M. Kern, W. A. McKeighan.

The Bimetallic League.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Gen. A. J. Warner, president of the American Bimetallic league, has issued "an appeal" to the people on behalf of silver. After dwelling upon recent anti-silver legislation, it continues:

"No claim more ridiculous could be made than that the addition of from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 of standard money to our volume of currency would seriously prejudice our industry and brought on a panic. The bottom cause of the panic was the shrinkage in prices necessary to conform to the single gold standard, and the necessary consequences of the establishment of the single gold standard must be a possible temporary expansion of more credit—a still further and more rapid rise of gold and a corresponding fall in prices. There is no possible way to retain gold in this country but to bring prices down to the level of prices for other countries, so that gold will tend toward and not from the United States. Prices, therefore, must scale down and debts scale up, as gold raises in value. All products of labor must fall and eventually wages of labor must scale down also. This is inevitable with a single gold standard."

"Will the people of this country consent forever to carry on business and pay debts by a constantly-increasing money standard in order that the debtors may be able to meet their obligations? Will they consent that the earnings of others? A determined fight has been made in congress by the friends of a just money standard against the enactment of a measure fraught with more injustice to the people of this country than any other in its whole history. It is believed that no severer blow was ever struck at the rights and interests of the people since our government was established than that which subjects them to the domination of money combination extending to both sides of the Atlantic ocean. The decree that the people of this country shall have no money that does not promise gold on demand, while the gold is nearly all locked up in the vaults of a few great treasuries and banking firms, is sought to be enough in itself to arouse the people to a sense of the danger that threatens them. This is a question that involves the very existence of the institutions on which the republic was founded, if not of civilization itself.

"The remedy must be sought back to the people; it is for them to say whether they will succumb to the demands of a power alien to the constitution and subversive of their rights; whether they will permit their property to be sliced from their hands and sent down to conform to an altered money standard, while their taxes and interests are correspondingly increased, or whether they will rise in their might and defend their rights and interests as becomes a free people.

"The power is in their hands to right the wrong if they will but use it. The lines are clearly drawn. Shall the money power of the people control this government? Shall this country control its own financial policy or shall it be subject to the dictation of foreign nations or of home and foreign combinations of capital? Shall the money standard be gold alone, or shall a paper currency issued by innumerable banks and regulated by no principle but their own interests, or shall it be the constitutional standard of gold and silver with the issue and regulation of all paper currency by the general government?

"This question is pre-eminently above all others and rises above mere party considerations. There can be no issue but this until this has been finally settled and settled rightly. It requires no prophet to forecast that, under the single gold standard and with that last source of supply cut off, prices must continue to fall, industries stagnate and idleness, want and misery fill the land."

"The remedy must be sought at the legislative office and pledge every candidate for congress to work and vote for the restoration of the constitutional standard of money; to demand the coinage of both metals without discrimination against either, and the issue and control of the money by the government of the United States. Retire every representative who has been unfaithful to his trust, and elect only true and tried men to represent your interest in the great struggle now before us."

BECAME MURDERERS.

Train Robbers in Arkansas Shed One Man's Blood.

They Kill a Conductor, and After Looting an Express Car, Rob the Passengers—Bandits Come to Grief in Tennessee.

KILLED BY ROBBERS.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 6.—Fast express train No. 51 of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern, known as the Cannon ball, due here at 2:10 a. m., was held up and robbed by seven masked men at Oliphant, Ark., 7 miles north of Newport, at 10 o'clock Friday night. Passenger Conductor J. P. McNally was shot and killed while trying to protect his train. Oliphant is a small lumber town of about 300 inhabitants, situated in a lonely timber district in White county.

When train 51 stopped at the station two men jumped on the engine and, pointing revolvers at the engineer and firemen, ordered them to keep still, threatening to blow their brains out if they moved a muscle. The other five men surrounded the express car, the door of which was open, and at once began firing a wicked fusillade from their revolvers. Conductor J. P. McNally drew his revolver and returned the robbers' fire, but before he had succeeded in wounding any of them he was shot and killed. The robbers then entered the express car, overpowered the messenger and looted the car.

Leaving two men to guard the trainmen, the other robbers proceeded to rob the passengers. They entered the coaches and sleepers and at the point of a revolver relieved all the passengers of their valuables. They then left with a parting volley, taking a northerly direction. A telegram was at once sent to the sheriff of Newport, who formed a posse and started in pursuit.

An engine was dispatched to Augusta for bloodhounds. Telegrams were quickly sent to Little Rock for assistance, and a special train left about 1 o'clock a. m., carrying a posse of officers and a pack of bloodhounds. The train which was held up reached here about 5 a. m., bringing the remains of Conductor McNally.

The railroad people have no idea as to the amount of money secured by the robbers. General Superintendent Peck and Division Superintendent Rose of the Iron Mountain, who are in Memphis, have been notified of the robbery and have instructed the railroad people here to offer a large reward for the arrest of the robbers.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 4.—An attempt was made at Coal Creek water tank, 30 miles north of here, to rob the express car of passenger train No. 15, Capt. Brown conductor, which runs solid from Knoxville to Louisville, Ky., over the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia and Louisville & Nashville railways. The robbery was expected, as there were on board the train Capt. J. J. Atkins, chief of police of Roanoke, Va., and N. S. Woodard, local agent at Knoxville.

When the train stopped for water four men jumped on the platform of the car armed heavily and demanded that the messenger open the door. This was done, but instead of the lone messenger the would-be robbers were covered by half a dozen pistols. Firing in rapid succession from both sides commenced, when the robbers tried to escape. Two were captured, however, and will be brought here. One, who was mortally wounded, was identified as James Smith, of this city, a tough character. The other was an ex-express messenger, name unknown.

There is said to have been considerable money in the express car. There were four robbers in the party, two of whom escaped. Chief of Police Atkins was shot in the left arm and slightly injured. Officer Irwin received only slight flesh wounds on the head and right hand. The injured men were all brought here at 2 o'clock a. m. Smith will die.

The Southern Express company has known of a conspiracy to hold up trains for several days, and from four to ten armed men have been sent out on the express car for three nights past.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 6.—While attending to her domestic affairs and surrounded with her children Mrs. Minnie Pieper, the wife of Charles Pieper, of No. 2929 Castellar street, was enveloped in the flames arising from an exploding lamp and was burned to death. Mrs. Pieper had her 2-month-old babe in her arms when in some manner not yet fully explained her 2-year-old boy struck the lamp with his elbow, knocking it to the floor. It exploded, and instantly the flames communicated with Mrs. Pieper's clothing. The woman handed the baby to an older sister and cried for help. Her appeals for aid were responded to, but not until it was too late.

The sermon was delivered by Archbishop Elder, of Cincinnati. Bishop Rasmussen, of Fort Wayne, was the celebrant of the mass. There was a large attendance of the clergy from Indiana and adjoining states.

OUR FLAG FIRED ON.

The Honduran Government Insults the Stars and Stripes.

LA LIBERTAD, Honduras, Nov. 8.—Honduras fired upon the American flag Monday morning. By the alleged orders of President Vasquez and the express command of the commissioner of the port of Amapala seven cannon shots were fired after the Pacific mail steamship Costa Rica, flying the stars and stripes, as she steamed away because she refused to surrender one of her passengers to the Honduran government. United States Minister Baker was on board the Costa Rica at the time.

The passenger about whom the trouble arose is Policarpo Bonilla, who recently led the revolution in Honduras, but was defeated by Gen. Vasquez. He then fled to Nicaragua, and with 300 of his adherents joined the army of President Saca, who was engaged in an attempt to quell a rebellion. Bonilla had decided to leave Nicaragua. He therefore sailed from Corinto to Guatemala on November 4 on the Costa Rica. American Minister Baker and more than 100 other persons were his fellow passengers. They arrived Sunday morning at Amapala, a port of entry of Honduras on the Pacific coast, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon the commander of the Port Villala demanded that Capt. Dow should surrender Bonilla. Seven shots were fired after the Costa Rica, although she flew the American flag. None of the shots struck her, however, but it is feared the steamship City of Panama, of the same line, which was lying in the port, may have been injured, because the firing continued for some time after the Costa Rica was out of range.

BANKERS SET FREE.

A Milwaukee Judge Holds That the Grand Jury Was Illegal.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 8.—Sixty-seven indictments, returned against well-known Milwaukeeans by the two grand juries which have been investigating the bank and other failures are null and void. This is the result of a decision by Judge Johnson in the circuit court Monday afternoon when he dismissed Eugene S. Elliott and F. W. Noyes, directors of the defunct Plankinton bank, who had been indicted for embezzlement by both the first and second grand juries and who instituted habeas corpus proceedings to secure their release on the last indictments. The indictments which Judge Johnson's decision has thrown out are as follows:

Frank A. Lappin, 14; William Plankinton, 8; F. T. Day, 9; Charles L. Wilson, 5; E. S. Elliott, 5; F. W. Noyes, 5; William H. Menden, 3; John B. Koetting, 10; G. C. Trumpp, 3; and Judge J. Q. Jenkins, 5—total, 67.

The attorneys for the indicted bankers went into court and contended that the indictments found against their clients were null and void because the jury had no legal existence when they were returned—that is, that the term of the jury expired with the September term of the municipal court and that, therefore, the jury had no authority to return indictments on the last day of the October term.

Judge Johnson promptly decided in favor of the bankers, saying that it was clear under the statutes that the point made by the defense was well taken and that the jury had no legal existence when it returned the indictment. He ordered that the prisoners be discharged at once.

District Attorney Hammel threatens to have the bankers arrested on complaints issued by depositors, but up to a late hour no arrests had been made.

MET AN AWFUL DEATH.

An Invalid Fatally Burned in a Bath of Blazing Alcohol.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Literally cooked in a bath of blazing alcohol, Mrs. Mary Lasinski of 21 Wade street received injuries Sunday morning which resulted in her death later in the day. She died after hours of fearful agony. For a long time past she has been an invalid and, after sundry other means of relief had proved useless, she determined to try the effect of alcohol baths. Her first experiment was Sunday morning. As she stepped into the bath she slipped and in so doing splashed the liquid over the edge. A stream of it ran over the side and reached the lamp beneath the bath by which the alcohol was heated. In an instant the flame had crept into the bath and before the ill-starred woman realized what had happened she was up to her waist in living fire. The flames mounted and wrapped themselves round the upper part of her body. She shrieked for help and struggled to escape. In her haste she slipped back into the bath, and by the time she could escape from the furnace she was burnt from head to foot. She ran from the room crying aloud in her pain. The burning alcohol clung to her skin and she fell writhing to the floor. At last she fainted from the agony and when assistance arrived she was so badly injured that there was no hope of her recovery. Almost every particle of skin had been burnt from her body and every movement enhanced her torture. She died an hour or two later.

Then cut two pieces of wood 2 inches long, 1 inch wide, 1/2 inch thick, and bore a 1/2-inch groove in one end, as shown in Fig. 3. On another board, 15x27, 11 inches from one end nail a stick across, as in Fig. 2, and around the ends fit the grooves in Fig. 2. Then cut a piece 6x15 inches and allow a pin to project from each end, as in Fig. 4. Bore full of auger holes to admit light. The pins are to fit in holes to be bored in Fig. 1. Now cut three pieces 1x4 and 15 inches long, nail some light lumber on the end of No. 3, to which the nest has been nailed, so that they will form a box in which to make the nest.

To put the nest together nail No. 3 to No. 1. Be sure that they will both be inside the box when completed. Place the ends of No. 4 in the holes. Cut more than in No. 1 and then nail the three 1x4 pieces in the notches. Nail boards across the top, leaving one about 8 inches wide not nailed but fastened to the other by a pair of small hinges. This may be raised to inspect the nest. Put in the nest board and have the pins rest in the grooves. Nail boards across the back end. If the front end of the nest board is too tight fasten and weight to the under side to keep the end down when nest contains a sitting of eggs. Drive a staple in the front end of the nest board, tie a string to it, bring it up inside the box, place it out over No. 4, or the door, and fasten to another staple in the front of the door. By this means, when the nest board or treadle goes down the door will rise. No. 5 shows the nest ready for use, and 6 shows it as it will be when occupied. But one hen can occupy the nest at the same time and it is rat-proof.—John H. Nowlan, in Farm and Home.

FRESH FARM NOTES.

HAUL out manure as it accumulates and spread on the fields. Do not let it pile up and fire fang.

WHEN straw is used for bedding it should be changed regularly every few days. It soon becomes foul.

CLEAN up rubbish about the farm. Bits of rails, limbs of trees, ends of boards, etc., will soon be covered with snow.

IN building temporary corn cribs have the floor at least a foot above the ground, so rats and mice cannot harbor under it.

PATCH up the cracks in the chicken house, cow barn, sheep shed, etc. Cold winds are detrimental to stock raising.

GET potatoes in the cellar or pit as the time is nearly here when cold nights will injure them. See that the stiring place is well ventilated.

WHEN the machinery used in putting in the wheat crop is needed no longer, carefully clean, grease bright metal surfaces and put away in a dry place.

IN selecting seed corn remember that the varieties will cross-fertilize at long distances. Select seed from corn which has grown apart from other varieties.

THE best method of keeping roots where one has no regular root cellar is to bury on dry ground. Cover with two feet of earth and see that all water that falls on the pit can get off readily.

LAYING out and putting in tile drains is now in order, where the ground is not too hard. Better have all the main lines surveyed and the tile leveled before covering. Imperfectly laid drains are useless.

Dividing the Pasture.

One excellent plan for keeping up the fertility of the pasture land is to divide the pastures into two fields, giving the cattle the advantage of a portion of the pasturage, leaving one field to grow and so remain until spring. This method simply protects the pasture from close cropping, which is, sure to cause exhaustion at some period, as every time the cattle graze over the pasture it is equivalent to so many mowings of the grass. By protecting the pasture there is a loss of its use at this season, but a greater longevity of the grasses of the pasture is secured. The best season for the renewal of pastures is in the fall, and more growth and greater density can be had by allowing the pasture grass to grow and then than to attempt to reseed the pasture early in the spring.

FATTENING FOR MARKET.

Weed Out the Less Promising Birds at an Early Date.

It is useless to try and raise all your fowls for the prize pen. Some of them are bound to be culls. So the best plan is to weed out the less promising stock at an early date.

Remove such birds—and especially all the imperfectly feathered or ill-shaped cockerels—from among their mates. Place them, fifteen or twenty together, in a closed coop, that is clean and comfortable, for them to eat and rest in, without crowding each other. Give them fresh water to drink, with a little cayenne pepper thrown into it, two or three times a week, and feed them all they will eat up clean three times a day, upon boiled corn and wheat meal with potatoes (a little salted), one part of each; into which, while hot, stir a pound of common lard, beef tallow, or chandlers' scraps (perfectly sweet, mind), to six or eight quarts of mash.

Feed this out when warm—have a basin of coarse gravel handy, which they will eat all they need of, to assist digestion—occasionally mix a little powdered charcoal in this soft food (which latter is an excellent purifier, and guards against the souring of their food in the crop) and in two or three weeks your birds will be at their best. Kill, dress and market them, and thus make the wisest disposal you can make of all your surplus or undesirable fowls.

While this process is going on, says Grange Homes, it will be observed that the birds are in close, compact coops, open only in front. These may be placed in the barn, or anywhere most convenient for the time being. They will not suffer (thus in a body) from the cold. The coops should be set on the ground, with straw or leaves for a flooring. The heat of the fowls' bodies will serve to keep each other warm enough in the three-sided closed coops. They have no exercise, and they have nothing to do but to eat, rest, sleep and grow fat. This method is simple, economical and the least troublesome. In twelve to twenty-four days, at the outside, fowls thus treated should be in their best condition for slaughtering.

ABOUT BROKEN LIMBS.

How to Apply Bandages Made of Plaster of Paris.

It often happens that some animal upon the farm has a leg broken. Not always will it pay to try to save the animal. In case of a fat hog or one of the cattle, it would be better to kill the animal at once, as the meat would be good for use if killed as soon as the fracture is made, but with small animals a plaster of paris bandage applied to the fracture will in a few weeks' time make the limb as good as new.

Several instances of this kind have happened in my own experience, and the plaster bandage has always resulted in a complete cure.

Once a pet lamb had its leg broken. Instead of killing it a quantity of the plaster was wet up with cold water, the leg well greased to prevent the plaster sticking to it when the time came to remove the bandage, and a thick coating applied directly to the leg, first straightening as well as possible. Cloth bandages were then wound around it and securely tied. After the plaster had set, the lamb was given its liberty. After a few days it began to use the limb a little, and at the end of a month the bandage was removed and the limb found to be perfectly sound.

A hen was found with its leg broken in a trap last spring. As it was a choice one it was treated as above, and although it was longer in healing, it finally came out all right and shows no sign of its accident at the present time.

To apply the plaster, it should be spread upon a strip of cloth after being wet, as otherwise it could not be made to stay in place while the bandage was being applied.—Ella Rockwood, in Country Gentleman.

FOR PULLING STUMPS.

A Device Which Can Be Relied Upon in All Circumstances.

I cut a good strong pole about twenty feet long of white ash. Trim and peel it nicely, hitch a strong rope to the top—a chain will do, but it is heavier to handle. Set the pole against the stump to be pulled, letting the lower end rest between two roots. Then put a strong chain around the top of the stump, passing it around the pole. A team hitched to the rope will pull out most any stump. Place the pole close to the stump and cut the roots opposite the pole. Two men can best do the work, one to tend the horse, the other to cut roots as the stump is being turned up.—Farm and Home.

Reducing Bones for Gardens. Reducing bones by burning is recommended by the Rural New Yorker as the cheapest mode when small quantities are to be applied, and it is recommended also as the only way that some farmers can get them into fine meal or powder. If the whole bone should be crushed or ground into fine meal without burning it would, of course, be worth more. Take two similar bones, burn one to ashes and grind the other to a fine meal and then steam it; the steamed bone will be twice as valuable as the bone ash.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

THE town of Bicknell, Knox county, was visited by burglars the other night. The iron safe in John Donaldson's store was blown open, and the cracksmen secured forty-two dollars cash, a large quantity of clothing and other articles to the value of $250.

HORSEY JOHNSON'S fine new barn and contents, and Charles Triger's large barns, north of Brazil, were destroyed by fire the other night; also, several hundred dollars' worth of feed. Loss very heavy, partly insured. The fire originated by a cow kicking over a lantern in some dry straw.

DR. EDDY and the students at Rose Polytechnic, Terre Haute, are again at loggerheads over Halloween capers.

ANDREW M. LOCKRIDGE, widely known as a cattle king and early pioneer of Putnam county, died the other night of pneumonia, aged 80 years.

EABE MULL, of Dunkirk, was held up and robbed the other night a few miles from Portland. He had brought some traveling men over from Dunkirk, and on his way home, while about four miles from Portland, a heavy-set man stepped out in the road and compelled him to halt. The thief had gone through Mull's pockets and secured all of his money, when the latter struck him a heavy blow, jumped in his buggy and fled. No clew to the thief.

THE large pulp plant of the Indiana Paper Co., South Bend, was destroyed by fire, the other night. Loss, $20,000; insurance, $5,000. The fire was probably incendiary. The plant will hardly be rebuilt.

GEORGE W. POWELL, head of the real estate firm of Powell & Frather, was the other day appointed chief of police of Indianapolis. He has had no police experience, and he hesitated a good while before accepting, lest it might ruin his social standing.

WORLD'S FAIR TROPHIES.

The McCormick Harvesting Machine Company Awarded Seven Medals and Diplomas for the Superior Excellence of Their Binders and Mowers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24th. At the World's Columbian Exposition today seven medals and seven diplomas were awarded the McCormick Harvesting Machine Company of this city. These honors are in recognition of the merit of the following named machines manufactured by the McCormick Company: The Machine of Steel, Bindlochine, Open Elevator, McCormick Simple Knotter, No. 4 Steel Mower, Big 4 Steel Mower and the Corn Harvester. These, the highest awards, are based on the performance of the McCormick machines before the judges in the field, at the regular field trials of the Exposition, held at Wayne, Ill., in July last, the machines tested being those regularly built for the general trade. It is a significant fact that all the manufacturers of harvesting machinery having exhibits at the World's Fair, the McCormick Company alone complied with the committee's request to show the capabilities of their machines in the field. The first successful reaper was invented by Cyrus Hall McCormick in 1831, and from that time to this the McCormick machines have had a decided prestige over all others. They have won the grand gold medals and highest awards at every World's Fair, and it was possibly for this reason that sixteen different manufacturers of Binders and Mowers did not compete in the field with them. Throughout the entire season these sixteen concerns, in their efforts to have a floor award granted, had done everything possible to baffle the Commission and prevent a fair open field exhibit that should test the working qualities of the machines. And now, after a four months' fight by the makers of harvesting machines who did not dare meet McCormick in the field—a fight in which the United States Commission voted at every turn that the only way to examine a machine was by seeing it at work in the field—and after having signed an agreement with all the others not to show in the field, one concern wanted an award so badly that only two weeks ago it went so far as to get a secret permit to pay the expenses of a new Committee to secretly accompany their special machines to a remote section of Colorado, where no other machines could be shown, and where the crop (if there is any left) must be much lighter, and the surface of the ground flatter, with the evident hope that the conditions would be as easy work and as light draft as were shown by the regular McCormick machines in the official tests in July, in the very heavy grain then harvested. The diplomas awarded the McCormick machines speak in highest terms of their efficiency, ease of handling and extreme light draft. The McCormick No. 4 Mower showed wonderful power at work, and a 5 ft. cut machine, in a field averaging three tons to the acre, with a dynamometer perfectly adjusted by the U. S. Custodian of Government Weights and Measures, drew at work, at an average draft of 123 lbs. The judges pronounce this a remarkable performance. The McCormick Binders, cutting 6 ft. of heavy oats on uphill ground, and carrying bundle carriers, measured by the same standardized dynamometer, showed a draft as low as 320 lbs., and none higher than 360 lbs. This wonderful showing was a great revelation to many distinguished foreigners at the trial, and no one present was at a loss to know why more machines did not take part in the tests.

Cream of Tartar and Soda

Have uses in cooking well known to every housekeeper; but the method of refining them to make them chemically pure, and of mixing them together so as to produce their greatest leavening power and best results when combined, is a matter of great exactness, requiring the most expert knowledge and skill.

Royal Baking Powder

Is the product of this knowledge and experience and the expenditure of many thousands of dollars in patents and appliances for its preparation. It is a compound of strictly pure grape cream of tartar and absolutely pure soda, combined with exactness and care by famous chemists, and it will produce more wholesome and delicate bread, biscuit, cake, rolls, etc., than can be had where this modern agent of cooking is not used.

Beware of the cheap compounds called baking powders to catch the unwary. They are made with alum and are poisonous.
